Blizzards And Zero Weather Grip Midwest States

SNOW, FOOT DEEP, COVERS ALL INDIANA

Trains and Street Cars Are Running Behind Schedule; Snow Plows Needed
NO RELIEF OFFERED
All Time Record Set By Cold Wave in Texas as Temperature Takes Drop

By UNITED PRESS
FROM THE ROCKY MOUNTAINS to the Appalachians winter ruled today. Over most of the area, however, fair skies followed snow, cold rains, and a lowering mercury, and forecasts were for clear, continued cold weather.

In Duluth, Minn., on the north, the mercury plunged to zero. Far to the south, Dallas, Texas, reported 22 degrees. Denver, on the western boundary of the storm area, had 28 degrees, and Indianapolis registered a 26-degree temperature.

Snow fell yesterday or last night over the entire area, in many cases reaching a record depth for this early in the winter. Indiana was blanketed under a foot of snow, with trains and street cars running behind schedule, buses and cars stalled, and snow plows brought into use.

Lake Michigan shielded Chicago from the full brunt of the cold wave, but the mercury dropped to freezing there, and a seven-inch snowfall filled the streets. In Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, and Nebraska, temperatures ranging from four to thirty degrees above zero were reported.

St. Louis, struggling through six inches of snow, had 20 degrees. Kansas City reported 10 degrees. In Columbia, Mo., a November record was set at 8 degrees, and in Mexico, Mo., the mercury registered four degrees lower than this.

All-time records were set by the Texas cold wave. Freezing temperatures reached almost to the Rio Grande, as cold rains swept the state. There was no snow.

In the Oklahoma panhandle flurries of snow left a thin covering on the ground.

The storm appeared to be moving south and east, winter observers predicting snow and colder weather tonight or tomorrow for such states as New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland.

In the Pacific northwest more unsettled weather and rain was predicted after a gale which lashed the Oregon and Washington coasts late yesterday, flooding streams, tearing down power lines, driving all small vessels to ports. Utah and Idaho reported rain and snow, but temperatures for the most part were moderate.

MINERS IN RIOT

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 16.—(UP)—Two employees of the Peabody Coal company's Andrews mine, near here, were wounded today when pickets stormed the workings in an attempt to prevent reopening. The pickets clashed with workers. Several of the latter were reported beaten.

Robert Christ, an engineer at the mine, was brought to St. John's hospital here, suffering from a bullet wound in the shoulder. The other injured man, said to have been wounded slightly, was identified only as a member of the United Mine Workers.

PHOTOGRAPH FORTS
PARIS, Nov. 16.—(UP)—The Strasbourg correspondent of the newspaper Echo de Paris reported today that officers and soldiers of the German Reichswehr had been seen on the right bank of the Rhine near Seltz, Wissembourg, Nov. 8 taking photographs of a French fort near the bridge. The Versailles treaty demilitarized the right bank of the Rhine for a distance of 30 miles inland.

DECREE ISSUED
MOSCOW, Nov. 16.—(UP)—Any worker or official in Soviet Russia absent without justification for one day during a month will be subject to immediate discharge and loss of his bread card, according to a decree to be issued today by the council of peoples commissars. The decree is aimed to overcome widespread neglect of duties.

40 BOATS MISSING
TOKIO, Nov. 16.—(UP)—The newspaper Asahi reported today that 40 fishing boats were missing in Fukushima province after the recent typhoon, and that 250 fishermen were feared drowned. The official death list remained at 43 dead, 62 missing, and 46 injured.

OPERATIVE KILLED
HAVANA, Nov. 16.—(UP)—Fafael Raymond, a secret operative who had been active against government oppositionists, was killed last night outside his home by assassins who fired from an automobile.

COMMITTEE TO COAST CITIES OPEN ELECTION WILL FEATURE PROBE AT ONCE

Four Subpoenas Issued for Inquiry Thursday Into Philadelphia Vote

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(UP)—The house special campaign fund committee today decided to hold hearings in Philadelphia tomorrow and Friday on allegations of irregularities in the recent elections.

Philip C. Crook, acting sergeant-at-arms of the house, was given four subpoenas requiring officials of the Philadelphia Republican city committee and of the Pennsylvania Republican state committee to appear as witnesses when the hearings open in the Federal building tomorrow.

Crook will turn the subpoenas over to the United States marshal in Philadelphia for service. Those named as witnesses are: Chairman Joseph W. Hazlett and Treasurer John J. McKinley of the Republican city committee, and Chairman Edward Martin and Treasurer Blakely D. McCaughn of the state committee.

Chairman Ragon of the house committee said numerous complaints had been received from Philadelphia in addition to those received from S. Davis Wilson, previously described as a committee investigator, but who, Ragon said, is not on the committee's payroll.

The election of Senator Davis,

BRITISH AVIATRIX CONTINUES FLIGHT

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(UP)—Mrs. Amy Johnson, British woman flyer, attempting a record flight to Cape Town, landed at Gao, French West Africa, at 12:30 p. m. Tuesday and continued to Duala, an exchange telegraph dispatch from Dakar said today.

Unpleasantness had been felt over lack of news from her since she left Oran, Algeria, for French West Africa late Monday.

Gao is on the upper Niger and Duala is about 1100 miles south, on the coast of French equatorial Africa, below the mouth of the Niger. Johnson was delighted at news of his wife's landing at Gao.

ROLPH ASKS LIST WRIGHT VIOLATORS

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Nov. 16.—(UP)—District attorneys in all California counties today were asked, through a letter from Governor Rolph, to list the names of all persons serving jail sentences under the Wright Act, state prohibition enforcement law which was repealed at the last election. The information was sought, the governor explained, in connection with pardons he proposes to grant to all such prisoners.

The governor also requested former Supreme Justice Matt I. Sullivan to inform him whether the pardons should extend to the Jones still bill, passed in 1927 as a result of a fight made on the search and seizure provisions of the California act.

PRIZES OFFERED FOR MOST PICTURESQUE SCENE AT MUNICIPAL TREES

CITIES OF THE Orange county coast will enter a contest to see which can provide the most picturesque Christmas setting around the municipal Christmas tree this year, as the result of a plan presented at the meeting of the Orange County Coast Association at Sunset Beach last night by Joseph R. Jahraus of Laguna Beach.

Jahraus presented sketches drawn by a Laguna Beach artist, showing how, at small cost, cribs, managers, or other groups of figures could be placed in a specially decorated enclosure around or near the Christmas tree. It was suggested that this Christmas group be different in each city, so that sightseers would go from city to city.

Jahraus was introduced by Dr. C. G. Huston of Costa Mesa, chairman of the Christmas Lighting committee. As a result of the discussion, K. P. Frederick of Long Beach, offered a prize for the best showing made considering the size of the community and its financial ability. Dr. Huston promised that other prizes would be offered.

In his report, Dr. Huston said he had received a great deal of encouragement from the cities and towns in his effort to have all communities along the coast line light up for Christmas. Not only city officials, but all householders will be asked to join the movement, which Dr. Huston predicted would grow until tourists would be attracted from all parts of the world to witness a unique spectacle. He suggested the judicious use of candles in the home.

In referring to the Jahraus plan, Dr. Huston said he hoped to see legends at each community tree showing that Orange county is the home of peace and good will. Jahraus told that at Christmas time many men were traveling the road, who would be hungry and advocated a real fire place with a hearth on which there would be a steaming coffee pot and that sandwiches also be served to the hungry.

Dr. Huston asked that for a week or 10 days before and after New Year's Day that lights be kept burning all through the night.

AMERICAN HEIRESS REPORTED ENGAGED

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(UP)—The Daily Express reported today that Miss Barbara Hutton, Woolworth heiress, wore a blood ruby ring on her engagement finger at her 21st birthday party. She has been reported engaged to a titled Englishman and to various members of foreign royalty.

The daily sketch said the engagement would be announced soon by the most beautiful of recent debutantes in London, and Charles Sweeney, 22, American student at Oxford and well known amateur golfer. Sweeney and his brother, Robert, have golfed with the Prince of Wales and played in the most important British tournaments for several years.

PRESIDENTIAL VOTE IN U. S. THIS YEAR SETS NEW RECORD

Roosevelt Winner By 6,456,254

Hoover Loses California by Over 400,000 According to Figures

(Copyright, 1932, by United Press)
VOTERS OF THE United States cast at least one million more ballots in last week's election than ever before in history, United Press tabulations of the results in every state showed today.

Ballots already counted totaled nearly 37,500,000. It was estimated that at least 500,000 votes were yet to be added in the official count embracing returns from isolated precincts and from absentee ballots.

The latest United Press tabulation gave:
Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democrat, 21,682,858.
Herbert Hoover, Republican, 15,226,604.
Norman Thomas, Socialist, 524,468.

Roosevelt's plurality, 6,456,254. The vote for Roosevelt exceeded by about 300,000 that given Mr. Hoover in 1928, when he defeated Alfred E. Smith. Returns as yet to be reported are expected to increase this total.

The positions of the Democratic and Republican candidates were almost exactly reversed in 1928 and 1932. This year President Hoover carried six states. In 1928 Smith carried eight. In 1932 Mr. Hoover's vote was comparable with that of Smith four years before, while Roosevelt's vote this year totaled approximately the same as that given the Republican candidate four years ago.

Mr. Hoover's vote was approximately 210,000 in excess of that given Smith in 1928. In that year Mr. Hoover's total vote was 21,392,150, while Smith's was 15,916,443. The total popular vote for all candidates in 1928 was 36,879,414.

Woodrow Wilson, the last Democrat to occupy the White House, won his second term, in 1918, over Charles Evans Hughes, Republican, by a margin of slightly less than 600,000 votes.

A feature of this year's balloting, the tabulations showed, was the increased vote for Thomas, the Socialist candidate. In 1928, running as a candidate of the same party, he polled only 257,420 votes.

RESOLUTION CALLS FOR EXTRA SESSION

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 16.—(UP)—The house of representatives today sent to Gov. Louis L. Emerson a resolution urging that the chief executive call a special session of the legislature to consider repealing of the state prohibition law.

The governor last year vetoed a repeal bill. The resolution urging him to call a special session was passed by a vote of 68 to 21 after an uproarious session during which jobless citizens, lawmakers and police took turns booing each other.

The citizens, about 100 in number, were in the galleries and started the disorders by loudly booing a decision granting the seven leaders only two minutes each to present demands for unemployment relief.

BRIGHT SPOTS IN BUSINESS

SHREVEPORT, La.—North Central Texas Oil Co. reported net profit for the September quarter amounted to $13,999, against a net loss of $6098 in the third quarter of 1931.

PITTSBURGH—Westinghouse Air Brake Co. announced the receipt of an order for about $150,000 worth of air brake equipment for 1285 freight cars being built by the Pennsylvania railroad.

GOV. ROOSEVELT ABLE TO TALK TO REPORTERS

Recovers From Attack of Flu; Makes Plans for Call on Hoover

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 16.—(UP)—President-elect Roosevelt, recovered from a slight attack of the flu but a bit "weak" as he expressed it, planned today to attack problems of the New York state government he left unfinished when he was forced to his bed nearly a week ago.

Roosevelt received newspapermen for the first time in five days, at a bedside conference. Propped up by pillows, he sat in an old-fashioned, high-backed mahogany bed and discussed, among other things, his forthcoming session on war debts with President Hoover at Washington.

Between puffs of his cigarette he revealed he expected to be at the White House "about the first of the week," stopping there en route to Warm Springs, Ga., where he will meet with Democratic congressional leaders.

"Will the debts conference be of more than one day's duration?" he was asked.

The governor smiled and did not answer. His friends, however, are convinced it will be brief, pointing out that previous arrangements call for him to be in Warm Springs a week from today.

The next president of the United States appeared in excellent health despite the flu attack. In his large, high-ceilinged room on the second floor of the executive mansion the governor waded through stacks of correspondence accumulated since his election a week ago.

"Well, well, here you are," was his greeting to the newspapermen.

"You have arrived just in time to see me sign the papers that commute the death sentence of one prisoner to life in Sing Sing, and granting another condemned man a reprieve of three weeks," he said in a ringing voice that carried to all corners of the big room.

Luke O'Neill, a New York war veteran, was the slyer whose sentence was commuted. Joseph Bauman obtained the reprieve. He also is from New York City.

The governor declared he would be up and about now on, and that he would leave for his Hyde Park home Saturday morning. From Hyde Park he will motor to New York City and there board his special car for the south.

During the rest of the week he was scheduled to work on the state budget for 1933, a task he set for himself when he returned from New York City last week but which was interrupted when his cold developed.

$9000 IN JEWELS STOLEN BY THUGS

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 16.—(UP)—Two men entered the Chestnut Hill home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Harrison Frazier early today, threatened the occupants with torture and escaped with more than $9000 in jewels and money.

The thieves bound the Fraziers and their maid, Elizabeth Catlin. When they refused to reveal the hiding place of the jewelry and money the men threatened them with torture.

Dawes Out of Politics Forever Says

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—(UP)—Charles G. Dawes, former vice president and former ambassador to Great Britain, has announced his retirement from politics will be permanent.

There had been rumors Dawes might be urged to head the Republican national ticket in 1936.

"I am out of politics for good," he said in regard to the rumors.

Dawes said he would devote all his time to his banking business.

PUBLISHER IS ORDERED INTO COURT FRIDAY

Bonfils of Denver Post is Cited by Judge on Contempt Charges

DENVER, Nov. 16.—(UP)—Frederick G. Bonfils, publisher of the Denver Post, must appear in district court Friday to show cause why he should not be adjudged guilty of contempt of court, according to an order entered by Judge H. E. Munson of Sterling on petition of the Rocky Mountain News, a Scripps-Howard newspaper.

The News filed its petition after Bonfils, on the advice of his attorney, Philip Hornbein, retired from a deposition hearing in his $200,000 libel suit against the News.

Hornbein alleged publication by the News of a report of a speech attacking Bonfils, which was made by U. S. Senator Walter Walker, was an attempt to arouse someone to assassinate Bonfils.

The News, through its attorney, Philip Van Cise, defended the suit but at issue the entire life of Bonfils, and was seeking to question him about his publishing ventures, his marriage, his schooling and his age, when Hornbein stopped the taking of Bonfils deposition.

"The scope of the examination is such as to clearly demonstrate that it is not a good faith examination," Hornbein said. "It is the purpose to ask a lot of questions that have not the slightest conceivable bearing on the issue involved, which I say again is the issue of attempted assassination."

SCOUTING FLEET TO GO EAST IN SPRING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(UP)—Naval officers said today there was a possibility that the scouting fleet might return to the Atlantic coast in early April, 1933. They emphasized, however, that no definite plans for such a move had been made to date.

Maneuvers of the entire fleet scheduled for the third quarter of the fiscal year and including January, February and March, are to end March 30. Beyond that time, officials said, there is nothing scheduled for the scouting fleet.

The scouting fleet arrived in California April 7 of this year and since then has been stationed on the Pacific coast. Mainly for reasons of economy no portion of the fleet so far has been ordered back to the Atlantic seaboard.

COMEDIAN'S WIFE TO SEEK DIVORCE

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 16.—(UP)—Star Laurel, member of the famed comic screen team of Laurel and Hardy, and his wife have separated. It was learned today.

The comedian revealed that his wife, formerly known on the screen as Lois Nelson, will ask for a divorce and custody of their 5-year-old daughter, Lois.

AL CAPONE IN COURT; PLEADS FOR RELEASE

Seeks Freedom on Writ of Habeas Corpus in Federal Court Today

ATLANTA, Nov. 16.—(UP)—Alphonse Capone, the former Chicago gang leader, pleaded in federal court today for a writ of habeas corpus that would free him from the Atlanta federal penitentiary.

Still fat, and not as carefully dressed as in his palmy days, Capone seemed bored by the arguments of his attorneys for a writ that would free him from a ten-year sentence for income tax fraud.

Under the heaviest guard of U. S. marshals employed here in years, Capone was brought to the federal buildings at 8:30 a. m. for the hearing at 10. Corridors of the building were swept clean of loiterers. Spectators were admitted shortly before 10, everyone forced to find a seat, and then the doors were closed.

Assistant United States Attorney General A. G. Youngquist, who came down from Washington to fight Capone's attempt to "beat the rap," opened the proceedings before Judge E. Marvin Underwood with a motion to dismiss the action for lack of legal sufficiency.

He was answered by Capone by William E. Leahy of Washington, who charged the government with failure to do exactly what the government had charged Capone with failure to do, namely, swing into the proper legal action to determine "at the time" whether, in fact, the statute of limitations applied to the case.

Occasionally, as the hearing progressed, Judge Underwood demanded that spectators, "all," be seated. He frequently interrupted counsel to ask pointed questions. Through the high arched windows of the courtroom knots of distant spectators could be seen massed in windows of adjacent office buildings—peering in at Capone who faced them.

RAPIDAN CAMP TO GO TO GOVERNMENT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(UP)—President Hoover's 168-acre mountain camp at the headwaters of the Rapidan river in Virginia is expected to become government property when the president retires from the White House.

Mr. Hoover owns the property personally, but has expressed his intention of turning it over to the government. If President-Elect Roosevelt desires, it may be maintained as a permanent retreat for presidents. Otherwise it is expected to become part of the Shenandoah National park, which now surrounds it on all sides.

The camp commands a magnificent view of the Blue Ridge mountains and its 2500 feet elevation gives it a summer temperature far more comfortable than that of Washington, 90 miles away.

SENATOR BROOKHART REPORTED IMPROVED

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—(UP)—Sen. Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa, who has been ill of bronchial pneumonia, hoped today to be sufficiently recovered within the next two days to leave for Washington.

Brookhart became ill after attending the funeral here of Congressman Charles A. Karch. He remained at the home of Franklin Hope in Hinsdale, a suburb.

Dr. Carl E. Schmitt, attending physician, said he believed Brookhart would be "up and around" by Saturday. Brookhart, however, expressed a belief he would be well sooner than that.

PROBLEM OF DEBTS TAKEN UP AT ONCE

Crowd of 1000 Persons at Depot Welcome President on Return Home
PLUNGES INTO WORK
Confers With His Advisers and Understood to Be in Favor of Moratorium

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(UP)—President Hoover came back to Washington today and, pausing only to exchange greetings with the crowd of friends who welcomed him home, plunged immediately into the momentous problems of war debts and domestic difficulties confronting him.

A crowd of 1000 persons, including Vice President Curtis and most of the members of the cabinet, met the president's train at the conclusion of his transcontinental journey from Palo Alto, Calif. Mr. Hoover, tired but smiling, shook hands with his well wishers and then hurried to the White House. He was at his desk in the executive offices, attacking the mass of business before him, at 9 a. m.

Friendly Reception

The president was returning as a candidate who had been defeated for reelection. The reception was a friendly one and Mr. Hoover seemed to appreciate it. But the pressure of world and domestic problems overshadowed political considerations and he went directly to the jobs which face him while he is preparing to turn the govern-

SAYS HOOVER NOT TO BE STANFORD PREXY

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—(UP)—Leland Cutler, president of the trustees of Leland Stanford university, today branded as "ridiculous and unfounded" rumors that President Hoover might become president of the school when he retires from office next March.

"The matter has never been discussed, formally or informally, by the trustees," Cutler said.

The leave of absence granted Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford, to serve as secretary of interior in Mr. Hoover's cabinet expires next month. Cutler said Dr. Wilbur has given no hint of his future plans. It is generally understood, however, that he will return to his post, which has been held in his absence by Dr. Robert E. Swain.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

CORONA, Nov. 16.—(To the Editor of The Register.) Germany has always paid each of these other nations more than each of them paid us. But Germany has quit paying them. Now they say they can't pay us. What they mean is that they could pay us, but they would have to use some of their own money to do it with. And of course a thing as revolutionary as that never entered their heads. Now the big joke is that we had been loaning Germany all the money that they paid them so that they could pay us. So it really wasn't Europe that fell down on the debts, it was us. It's all our fault. It was a wonderful idea as the Republicans worked it for years, only we run out of money and couldn't keep it going. But don't ever lay the fault on Europe for not paying us. They would start loaning the money to do it on.

Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

Arrest Brea Man In Needles For Manslaughter

DEATH OF AGED MAN RESULTS IN FILING CHARGE

Frederick Gilmore, 24, wanted here for manslaughter, has been arrested in Needles, Calif., and will be returned here probably tonight to stand trial.

His arrest was an accident, according to authorities, who declared that the man was arrested there for San Bernardino police when officers there were of the opinion they wanted him on a murder charge in that county.

After his arrest it was found that the Brea police had sworn to a complaint against him, charging manslaughter, following the death of an aged man on September 22. According to Leo Tris, deputy district attorney, who is handling the case, Gilmore struck Barton over the head with a stick when the aged man displeased him about watering the lawn at his home. Barton was badly hurt, but it was not thought he would die.

A few days after the blow was struck, Gilmore was taken into custody on an insanity complaint and Judge James Allen said today that he ordered Harold McCabe, deputy district attorney, to issue papers holding the man pending the recovery of Barton. McCabe failed to do this and when Gilmore was found sane, he walked away, a free man.

The fact that Barton died in Santa Paula on November 11 was not known here until yesterday and the arrest of Gilmore was declared by officers to have been a "stroke of luck."

Change Drivers At Orange State Fire Headquarters

Lee Rockwell of San Bernardino, who has been connected with the state forestry department for a number of years has been appointed to take the place of E. E. Vinsonhale, as truck driver in the state fire department with headquarters at Orange. Rockwell moved with his family to that city yesterday. Vinsonhale has been transferred to another district and will move from Orange shortly.

According to Joe Scherman, head of the state forest service of the county, Rockwell is an experienced fire fighter and has been employed both in San Bernardino and San Diego counties. Vinsonhale has been stationed in Orange for about four years.

TRAINING FOR DISABLED TO BE FURNISHED

Any permanently disabled person of employable age may secure training in his chosen line through the use of state and federal funds and through a plan which has been operating for some time.

R. W. Felke, of the state department of education, bureau of vocational rehabilitation, has been in Santa Ana and Orange county for the last few days making definite arrangements to place disabled persons more than 16 years of age in schools or in places where they can learn a trade or profession that will enable them to make their own living.

Felke announced that more than 20 persons in Santa Ana have been placed in positions where they can learn to be independent. Money is supplied through state appropriations, which are matched by the federal government.

Felke has made arrangements with the Citizens' Emergency committee to make contacts with persons interested at the unemployed headquarters on North Main street. Although Felke left today, he plans to be back probably next Monday and once a week thereafter.

The entire county will be worked with Santa Ana as a central point. The aptitude tests will be given at the unemployed building, and Felke plans to give some lectures if necessary.

PRESIDENT IS BACK AT WORK IN WASHINGTON

Mr. Hoover conferred during the morning with Secretary of Treasury Mills and former Senator Henry J. Allen of Kansas. They are among his closest advisers.

An invitation also was extended to Secretary of State Stimson to have luncheon with the president at the White House.

Mr. Hoover took up his labors to carve out a definite program for meeting the appeals of European nations for relief from war debt payments due December 15 with the feeling that it would be inadvisable to force payments at this time.

While opposing further reduction or cancellation of war debts the president is convinced that some action should be taken to ease the burden.

The president foresees difficulties with congress on this score. Congressional opinion has been opposed to an extension of the debt moratorium. Congress has the final word in passing on the American attitude toward European demands for further war debt revision. The executive branch of the government acts in a purely advisory capacity.

HANDWRITING EXPERT SPEAKS TO TEACHERS

Mrs. Edna S. Mettler-Wilson, handwriting expert of Columbus, Ohio, lectured on the topic: "Basic Principles of Handwriting," for the teachers of the elementary schools of Santa Ana and Orange county and other persons interested in the subject at the Frances Willard junior high school this afternoon.

Mrs. Mettler-Wilson came by special invitation of Miss Olive Wherry, penmanship supervisor of the Santa Ana city schools, and Mrs. Dora Pankey-Gilmes, general elementary supervisor of the schools of Orange county. She has traveled and lectured in the various sections of the United States, has been an inspector in the University of Porto Rico and has been a member of the faculty at the university.

The program consisted of a class demonstration in handwriting by the pupils of Frances Willard junior high school under the direction of Miss Wherry. This was followed by the lecture. Mrs. Mettler-Wilson handled her subject from the standpoint of the child's need. Methods and principles in handwriting have advanced a long way from the old copy-book form writing. Individual handwriting is diagnosed for difficulties and remedial measures are offered, in order that skill may be developed. It was pointed out, "The three fundamentals of handwriting are: legibility or readability, ease of execution and speed," the speaker said.

The idea that the typewriter has superseded handwriting in business is false as shown by surveys that found 50 per cent of the written work is still being done by hand.

The lecture was followed by a round table discussion of the local schoolroom problems pertaining to handwriting.

YOUNG VIOLINIST TO GIVE CONCERT

Josef Borisoff, famous Los Angeles violinist and instructor, will present Helen Tannenbaum, Santa Ana violinist who has already achieved a wide reputation as a concert musician, in a concert to be given in the Elbell clubhouse auditorium November 22 at 8:15 p. m. It was learned today that Miss Tannenbaum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Tannenbaum of Santa Ana, is well known in Santa Ana, having gone to school here and having played in several concerts, including the benefit show which was staged by the Breakfast club some time ago.

She has been an outstanding pupil of the famous Los Angeles instructor for six years. Her appearance here is but one of a series in a concert tour which eventually will become nationwide.

Following the concert here, Miss Tannenbaum will play at concerts to be given in Pasadena, at the Biltmore hotel in Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, Fresno and San Diego. Next year she plans to play in Carnegie Hall in New York City.

An old Greek superstition has it that it is unlucky to be married in May.

More than one-fifth of the total population of England and Wales live in Greater London.

COUNTY ENTERS AGREEMENT ON OPERATION OF CAMP FOR UNEMPLOYED TRANSIENTS

Plans have been completed by the board of supervisors for the prevention of "panhandling" and "mooching" by transients on the streets of Orange county communities this winter. Yesterday the board entered into an agreement with the State Forestry Department for the operation of a state labor camp near Lasky's Service Station in Santa Ana Canyon, near the Riverside county line.

Under the agreement entered into yesterday the camp will be maintained by the state and work provided for transients who are unemployed and want to work for their board and bed during the winter. The county will share a portion of the cost of equipping the camp and provide hospitalization for inmates of the camp who become ill and burial for those who die.

The state will provide food, shelter and equipment and have the transients work at forest conservation, fire prevention and other tasks for the mutual benefit of the state and county.

Under the agreement entered into yesterday, the county, in addition to the hospitalization and burial service will contribute $500 toward providing cots, bedding and a cooking range for the camp. This money will be taken from the fourth district forest patrol fund.

According to Chairman John Mitchell of the board of supervisors, the camp will be operated as soon as the equipment can be secured and the camp set up. This will require approximately two weeks. The men will be housed in tents and receive good wholesome food in exchange for work during the winter months. This camp will be operated under the same plan as were similar camps last winter in various sections of the state.

Mitchell yesterday pointed out that operation of the camp will be a great benefit to Orange county this winter in handling the expected influx of unemployed transients. Mitchell said that every winter Orange county is filled with men who, unable to find work, roam the streets begging for sufficient funds for food. These men, he said, will be provided with work at the camp and sent there by the chiefs of police from the various incorporated cities and by the sheriff from unincorporated areas.

"The camp," Mitchell said, "will be double benefit to Orange county. First it will take a burden off the welfare department and other charitable organizations and individuals and second it will give the men an opportunity to earn good food and comfortable shelter for the entire winter and at the same time accomplish beneficial work for the county."

$26,440 DAMAGE SUIT STARTS BEFORE JURY

Damages totaling $26,440.85 are sought in a trial that started before a jury this morning in department one, superior court in which Natalie Waldron, Santa Ana, guardian of her father and guardian W. J. Waldron is seeking to recover $25,000 from Kenneth Eastman, the Register Publishing company, limited, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Brown, Eastman's guardians. In a separate suit Waldron is seeking to recover $1440.85 allegedly expended for hospital and doctors' bills for his daughter.

The suit filed on behalf of Natalie Waldron seeks judgment of $20,000 against Eastman and $5000 against the other defendants.

The suit alleges that Eastman was in the employ of the Register when his automobile struck the Waldron girl and injured her. The Waldron girl was crossing Washington street, between Bristol and Arista streets at the time of the accident. Answers filed by both Eastman and the Register denied that the youth was working for the Register at the time of the crash.

Jurors hearing evidence in the case are: G. C. Bolm, Grace E. Taylor, A. V. Vaff, J. T. Dilley, John A. Boegman, Alfred H. Hansen, J. W. Watkins, Clara B. Daughenbaugh, Mabel Baker, James T. Parker, Harry W. Shepherd, and Stella O. Hitterdale. Judge Frank C. Collier is presiding. Jurist and Attorneys R. Y. Williams and Charles D. Swanner represent plaintiffs in the action and the defense is represented by Attorneys Frank West and George Kinkead.

MEN'S CLASS ENJOYS FELLOWSHIP SUPPER

An enthusiastic group of members and friends of the Santa Ana Men's Community Bible class met last night at the educational building of the First Christian church where they enjoyed a fellowship supper and social hour.

The program, which was arranged by E. A. Cox, class president, was featured by entertainment from the Holly Lash Vied studios, which was greatly enjoyed, and a talk by the Rev. Franklin H. Minck, pastor of the First Christian church, of Orange. The speaker used as his subject the new book by Albert Edward Wiggam, "The Marks of Educated Man" and gave several rules by which individuals could learn to get along better with their fellow-men.

DISPLAYS FOR BOOK WEEK AT JUNIOR HIGH SETS RECORD

National Book week at Julia Lathrop junior high school centers, this year, around the Lathrop branch library. Activities, sponsored and arranged by the English department, are taking the form of a Book Week fair, with the library as the main tent. Displays and booths featuring books in the making, animal stories, travel lore, and America in story, have been arranged about the library where they may be best seen by visitors and students.

Book marks, readers' guides, book plates, book puzzles, book covers, and book posters made through the English and art departments are on display. The history of America in story is made more complete through the assistance of the social science department in contributing to the display a number of dolls dressed to represent historical characters, and other illustrative projects made in this department. The librarian, Miss Leona Calkins, has compiled printed book lists of all types of books. These, and other colorful book marks may be obtained at the library as souvenirs of Book week.

Throughout the week, classes are scheduled to visit the library during their English periods, in order that every student may see the displays and become somewhat familiar with the new books which will be in circulation directly following the Book week activities.

A tournament of short skits and plays, several of them written, and directed by the pupils themselves, depicting scenes from favorite books, has also been arranged by members of the English department. Miss Elfreda Biggin's low seven English class will present "Elele in Bookland"; Mrs. Wolff's high seven class girls "How to Make a Book"; Miss Lota Blythe's high seven will present three short skits, "Tom Sawyer White-Washing the Fence," "Don Quixote," and the "Enchantress" and "Little Women"; while the high eights have prepared three scenes from "Tom Sawyer" for their class.

LIEN IS PLACED ON WALKER'S PROPERTY

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(UP)—A lien on former Mayor James J. Walker's belongings in his suite at the Hotel Ambassador was revealed when Deputy Sheriff Joseph A. Lanman attempted to seize some of the property to satisfy a $485 judgment obtained by an interior decorator who did some work on Walker's Mayfair house apartments.

The hotel management informed the deputy the mayor had retained the suite during his current European trip, and that automatically a lien was placed on his property therein.

WOMAN PROSECUTED UNDER WRIGHT ACT

The fact that the voters of California repealed the Wright act and that Governor James Rolph has announced that he will pardon all Wright act convicts, has had no bearing on the district attorney's office in the prosecuting of Selma O'Leary, Tustin woman, charged with possession of liquor. The woman went on trial in the justice court at Tustin yesterday, being tried under the Wright act. The case was continued at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon when the regular panel of jurors called was exhausted and will be taken up again on November 22, it was announced.

Sheriff's officers, who arrested the woman, reported they found some 80 gallons of liquor under the floor in her home. She is free on bail.

LOCAL DAIRY PRODUCTS WIN AT DAIRY SHOW

Further proof of the excellence of its products was received today by the Excelsior Creamery company, of Santa Ana, with announcement of first prize awards at the Pacific Coast Dairy show now in session at Oakland.

W. D. Ranney, president of the company, was advised that this Orange county concern, in competition with dairies of the entire Pacific coast, had won the gold medal award for Grade A pasteurized milk and the blue ribbon and gold medal for guaranteed raw milk.

This is the second set of major prize awards won by products of the Orange county concern this year, as the gold medals and blue ribbons for commercial and catering ice cream were won at the Los Angeles, Riverside and Orange county fair at Pomona in September.

"These achievements are the gratifying results of our policy to endeavor always to maintain excellence in our products in the position among the leaders of the dairy industry and conform to the high standards demanded by the public and health authorities today," Ranney said in announcing the latest prize awards.

FINAL RITES TODAY FOR JOHN HANSON

Funeral services for John C. Hanson, 34, of 329 Pomona street, Santa Ana, who died at the Sawtelle soldiers' hospital November 12, were held this morning at Sawtelle. Interment was made in the soldiers' cemetery at Sawtelle.

He is survived by his widow, Lena Hanson, and three daughters, Christine, Joelyn and Doris Jean Hanson, all of Santa Ana.

Hanson had lived in Santa Ana for 10 years until his death. He was a veteran of the World War and was a member of the local Veterans of Foreign Wars post.

CHILD EATS LYE; CONDITION SERIOUS

Raul Perez, one and a half year old La Habra baby was today in a serious condition at the Orange county hospital suffering from the effects of a quantity of lye swallowed at his home last night.

The child climbed upon a shelf and pulled a can of lye down. He then attempted to eat part of it. The baby's mouth was badly burned.

COAST GROUP URGES STUDY BY COMMITTEE

Declaring that "the people had spoken at the polls against public officials who would not listen to the pleas of the people, or who were responsible for the excessive cost of government in this county," N. E. West, of Laguna Beach, offered a resolution at the meeting of the Orange County Coast association at the Rustic Inn, Sunset Beach, last night, calling for the formation of a county-wide committee on taxation to be composed of representatives of the Coast association, the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange County, the Farm Bureau, the several Realty Boards, and every other responsible body interested in reducing governmental costs.

Governmental costs can be reduced without loss of any service we can pay for, or are willing to pay for," emphasized the speaker. "Such a tax league as I have suggested could in no way be classified as a political body, but we have no right to criticize until we let public officials know what we want."

West, who is chairman of a subcommittee of the taxation committee of the association, was called upon by Mayor Thomas F. Murphy, chairman of the taxation committee, who was presiding at the invitation of President Jesse A. Armitage of Sunset Beach. Armitage, who is recovering from a severe illness, was present at the meeting. In opening his report, he declared that while the tax books showed a reduction of $800,000 over last year, as reported at the last meeting by Hugh T. O'Connor, of Los Alamitos, that all but $119,000 of that amount had been effected by other tax-fixing bodies than the board of supervisors.

"Excessive Costs"

"The whole country is in greater distress at this time than it has ever been before," continued West. "We have just been through a hectic political campaign during which much heat, and also much light, was turned on. What stands out, as a net result, is that governmental costs have been too excessive and must be reduced. Tax figures are dry to the average citizen until he gets his bill. In 1929 the annual income of the United States was $5 billion of dollars and the total cost of all government from 12 to 15 per cent of that amount. This year the income has been cut in two, but governmental costs now represent 33-1-3 per cent of the income."

"Take our own county government as an example. Six years ago the cost was $5,000,000 and today it is $10,000,000 with the income of the people decreased by 50 per cent. Two years ago, when Rolph went into office, the state treasury had a surplus of $9,000,000. That all has been spent and we are $6,000,000 in the red. The cost of the federal government has risen from 1914 to the present time from one billion to more than four billions of dollars. So the evil is not just local but universal as far as taxpayers are concerned."

Cutting Needed

"The net result of the work of our own taxation committee this year, working with the Realty Boards and the Farm Bureau, has been a reduction of seven or eight per cent in taxes. It is obvious that we are not getting anywhere. Elections are not held often enough to bring public officials to a sense of their responsibility to the taxpayer. We are going at breakneck speed toward state capitalism. Last year the tax delinquencies were 10 per cent and this year the board of supervisors has piled on the 90 per cent who paid, the amount that was delinquent."

"The citizens have been converted to the necessity of economy, but the trouble is that we can't persuade the tax-fixing bodies to see the light. County officials' salaries are too high. There are about 100 tax-fixing bodies in the county; both need cutting. The power to tax carries power to destroy."

Gas Tax

Chairman Murphy said the formation of the taxation committee would be worked out at the next meeting. He made a report as delegate to the Economic Council of Southern California and told of a meeting to be held in Los Angeles November 21 to which many public officials have been invited to discuss the gas tax situation.

"We have had no encouragement from the board of supervisors on this question of getting a fair share of the gas tax money for the cities," the chair declared.

Hugh T. O'Connor advocated a change in the law requiring school budgets to be set in July. He declared that in most of the grammar school districts that contracts with the teachers were made before the budget was made up. He suggested a clause in the contract that it would not be in effect until after the budget hearing had been held and a chance given to make a change if required.

Dan Mulherson of San Clemente advocated a movement by the association to induce the state highway commission to take the Ortega Highway into the secondary highway system.

JURY FINDS FOR DEFENDANT IN $127,700 SUIT

Damages totalling $127,700 were denied the widow and infant daughter of John Williams, killed in an automobile accident near Newport Beach last February and Clayton R. Stevens, youth who was riding with Williams and was injured when the automobile was struck by a car driven by M. H. Lewis.

A jury that heard evidence in the case returned a verdict for the defendant last night in department one, superior court after Superior Judge Frank C. Collier had denied two defense motions, one for non-suit and the other for an instructed verdict in favor of Lewis.

Mrs. Virginia Williams had sued Lewis on behalf of herself and her infant daughter, Virginia Lee Williams, asking $50,000 for the death of her husband, $700 for the wrecking of the Williams automobile and $50,000 for the infant daughter for the loss of her father.

Suit on behalf of Clayton Stevens was filed by his father, Ralph H. Stevens, as guardian of the child and as an individual. That action sought $20,000 for injuries received by the boy and $1000 for money expended on hospital and doctors' bills.

The suits were combined for trial with attorneys Charles R. Holton and Walter E. Schuelke representing both plaintiffs and Joe Crider Jr., and Fred Forgy of the Santa Ana law firm of Forgy, Reinhaus and Forgy appearing for Lewis.

According to the complaints filed in connection with the two suits the Stevens boy was riding with Williams in an automobile along Ocean boulevard near the city of Newport Beach on February 27, last, when the automobile collided with a machine driven by Lewis. According to the two complaints Lewis was accused of driving at an excessive rate of speed.

Attorneys for the defense charged that Williams also was driving at a high rate of speed and was on the wrong side of the highway at the time of the crash.

S. A. STUDENT WINS HONORS AS MUSICIAN

Santa Ana friends of Orest Clonfoni, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Clonfoni, of Santa Ana, were interested today to learn that a new honor has been conferred upon the talented young musician who is at present a senior in the college of music at the University of Southern California.

He has been honored with membership in the Phi Phi, national honorary music fraternity at the university. The election of Clonfoni into the fraternity was the result of a series of outstanding achievements in the field of musical composition.

Last spring his group of three compositions for piano won first place in the Apollon, a contest in all fields of art. Later in the year he was winner of first prize of the Alchin scholarship which entitled him to study composition with the noted Dr. Oberg, of Northwestern university who is secured each summer by U. S. C. to teach composition.

Orest Clonfoni is a member of the Santa Ana Municipal band, of which his father is director, having been a member since its beginning. He is a graduate of the Santa Ana High school and Junior college. His talent has not been confined to music alone, but extended to art as well. He attended Otis Art Institute at Los Angeles for two years and became one of the outstanding students of the school. His art work was entered in the annual exhibition at the Los Angeles Museum for both years and was given honorable mention and first prize.

This year he is a member of the Trojan band. He will graduate this June and plans to continue his musical career in composition, the field of his major interest.

THOMAS GLENN TO GIVE TRAVEL TALK

Thomas Glenn, English instructor at the Santa Ana Junior college who has been away on a year's leave of absence while attending Oxford university in England, will be the featured speaker at the travel lecture which will be given at the Willard school auditorium at 7 o'clock tomorrow night. It was announced today.

The lecture will be the final one of the semester. The speaker will talk on the subject, "England and Its Universities." He will illustrate the lecture with colored slides. Glenn is widely traveled, having conducted tours through Europe.

The lectures are sponsored by the adult education department of the city schools and arranged by Julia Ann Hyde of the travel department of the Commercial National bank.

PHONE INCREASE In S. A. Reflects Business Gains

Santa Ana experienced a slight increase in the number of telephones in service during October, it was announced today by E. S. Morrow, district manager of the Southern California Telephone company.

His report shows that two more telephones were connected than disconnected last month, which is encouraging in view of the fact that the Santa Ana exchange lost on an average of 72 telephones per month during the first nine months of the year. Santa Ana has lost about eight per cent of its telephones, a total of 648 instruments, since January first, according to Morrow. The gain last month is compared with gains recorded for October in past years. In October 1931 the exchange grew by 29 telephones, in 1930 by 96 telephones and in 1929 by 74, he reported.

Morrow pointed out that the telephone industry has felt the full force of the depression as substantiated by his figures, with additional heavy expense involved in disconnecting telephones and reconnecting others. This trend has been counteracted to a degree by employe sales efforts and wholehearted cooperation by the 9000 telephone people of the Southland in the job-sharing plan, he said.

COUNTY CITIES WILL ORGANIZE LEAGUE BRANCH

For the purpose of discussing plans relative to the forming of an Orange County League of Municipalities, to act as an auxiliary to the state league of municipalities, a meeting will be held at Ketter's cafe at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow night, it was announced today.

The mayors, city councilmen, clerks and other officials of all incorporated cities in the county have been invited to attend, while speakers for the evening will be members of the state committee from various Southern California towns.

Several meetings already have been held in regard to the possibility of organizing Orange county and final plans may be made tomorrow, it was said today.

Several meetings already have been held in regard to the possibility of organizing Orange county and final plans may be made tomorrow, it was said today.

EXPANSION OF SEIERSEN FIRM IS COMPLETED

Completion of remodeling and enlargement of the Seiersen Supply company store at 215 East Fourth street, formerly Hill and Son, was announced today by Paul F. Seiersen, proprietor, who purchased the Hill interests about nine months ago.

The store, after having the partition removed between the main store and the room adjoining at the west, is now of the same proportions as the old and well known Hill store. The store now contains 15,400 square feet of floor space, making it the largest hardware and plumbing store in the city.

In preparation for the expansion movement, $9000 worth of new merchandise has been added to the store within the last 60 days. Six tables have been set up to display high quality Christmas merchandise.

Seiersen pointed out today that the store handles real, old-fashioned "hard" hardware, and that Bert Hill, who has been at the store for many years, is still a valued employee. C. H. Burritt is responsible for the arrangement of the interior of the store and the display of goods.

The store has inaugurated a "buy with confidence" plan, whereby money will be refunded or the purchase exchanged if the goods are not damaged.

Due to many inquiries which have been received, Seiersen announced today that the store will continue to give out information regarding the weather which has been a featured service of the store for many years.

DEANS

Senator William E. Borah (Rep., Idaho), above, and Representative Edward P. Pou (Dem., N. C.), below, will be the new deans of congress after March 4, 1933. Senator Borah began serving in the senate in 1907 and Representative Pou in the house in 1901. The reigning deans, Senator Reed Smoot (Rep., Utah) and Representative Gilbert N. Haugen (Rep., Iowa), were defeated in the recent election.

URGES CARE IN ECONOMIES ON PUBLIC ROADS

Protection of investment, which has been the object of every individual, and every business and industrial enterprise in the country for the past three years, is equally an imperative policy as it relates to public investments and it applies nowhere with greater emphasis than to money spent upon streets and highways, according to Nat H. Neff, county superintendent of highways.

In a statement yesterday Nat sounded a warning that any unreasonable curtailment of road upkeep, or maintenance funds at present cannot fail to prove an extremely false economy in the long run.

"Tax reduction," he said, "is a legitimate demand under many circumstances. When the individual is forced to modify his personal standard of living and expenditure, he naturally is unwilling to support any government, county, state or federal on the same grand scale that might exist in times of boundless prosperity. No holder of public office is justified in expecting anything else.

"Yet, any official is faithless to the trust imposed in him if he does not oppose economies that are bound to be ruinous and vastly more expensive than the temporary saving they effect. That is why county highway officials in all parts of the country, regardless of political affiliation, are pointing out the stark truth that roads not adequately maintained now will have to be replaced later.

"We may be entirely justified in insisting upon reduced budgets and lower taxes but let us be sure curtailments are the wisest, not the most costly, that can be conceived. Improper maintenance of our roads falls into the category of an extremely unwise saving."

RETIRED BUSINESS WOMAN IS CALLED

Miss Katie M. Hays, retired business woman, of Placentia, filed today at the home of her sister, Mrs. Bula Murdock, in Placentia, according to word received by relatives in Santa Ana.

Miss Hays had been in the dry good business in Placentia for the last 16 years, retiring but a few weeks ago.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 1:30 o'clock from the McAuley and Suters Funeral parlors in Fullerton. The Rev. Chas. E. Fuller of the Calvary church of Placentia, will officiate.

The Rebekah lodge will have charge of the services at the grave in Fairhaven cemetery.

Demonstrator To Talk at Meeting Of 4-H Leaders

New 4-H Clothing club leaders who are to have charge of first phase work will be afforded an opportunity to receive instruction on this phase under Miss Zilla Mills, home demonstration agent at large from the Agricultural Extension service at Berkeley on Friday at the Tustin 4-H club room, beginning at 9:30 a. m. Color harmony will also be presented to the experienced clothing club leaders, starting at 1:30 p. m. All club leaders and women desiring to start 4-H club work, are invited to attend, according to Eric E. Eastman, assistant farm advisor.

MAKE SEARCH FOR OLDEST CLEANER

"Who owns the oldest Hoover?" is the question which the Hoover company is asking its dealers and representatives throughout the country to find out. The women who supply the oldest models are to receive brand-new Silver Jubilee Hoovers.

This search to discover the oldest examples of the oldest make of electric cleaners in the country has been undertaken by the company in connection with its Silver Jubilee and is being handled here by Chandler's furniture store, authorized dealers.

"I'd like to find one of the earliest machines here in town if I can," said M. Gilson, of Chandler's. "If there is one of them to be had, I plan to exhibit it in our store. If the women in this community who have old Hoovers will get in touch with us, we will be very glad to check up on their machines. For the oldest Hoover in this district, the Hoover company will give one of their very latest models—a Silver Jubilee Hoover—in exchange."

Fathers and Sons Will Meet Friday

Superintendent of Schools Frank Henderson will be the principal speaker on the program of the Father and Son banquet at the United Presbyterian church next Friday evening. It was announced today by Martin Warren, chairman of the boys' work committee, which is in charge of the event. The affair, which is to be held in the church basement, commencing at 6:30 o'clock, also will include a program arranged and presented by the Boy Scout troop of the church.

Guaranteed to exclude 98% rain, wind, dust and smudge. CALL 3365 F. L. KING, 802 S. Broadway

HAS LEADING ROLE

Mona Summers Smith, plays the role of the princess mother, Beatrice, in "The Swan," to be given by the Community Players in the Ebell clubhouse on Friday and Saturday nights.

AMBITION OF MOTHER THEME OF 'THE SWAN'

A passion for seeing her daughter a queen is the nucleus of a plot in "The Swan," Community Players' production, in which Mona Summers Smith plays the part of the mother, and Clara Kate Owens has the role of the Princess Alexandra, the very attractive and marriageable daughter.

The play which will be given Friday and Saturday nights in the Ebell playhouse, tells an age-old story of mother love, or mayhap 'tis eager ambition, that almost brings with it tragedy.

Mrs. Smith, who has long been active in Community Play affairs, carries well the manners and charm of a royal princess, who, without a throne for herself, leaves no stone unturned in fostering her life's ambition of making her young daughter a queen.

In that plot, Warren Fletcher, as Dr. Nicholas Agt, a handsome young tutor, and Burr Shafer, as the desirable Prince Albert, have most important parts. A clever foil for Mrs. Smith is Gertrude Horn, who, as her sister, reflects the tribulations of the royal mother and her family in a most humorous manner, and offers a clever bit of entertainment.

REAPPOINTMENT OF TARVER EXPECTED

Ben E. Tarver, who has held the post of referee of bankruptcy here for the past 16 years, will probably be re-appointed for another two-year term when the present term expires on December 5, it was learned today.

According to Judge William P. James, presiding judge of the United States district court at Los Angeles, a petition filed on behalf of Tarver is stronger and has more signatures of members of the Orange County Bar association than has one which was filed by Thomas E. Pickrell, late secretary of the Placentia Chamber of Commerce, who has taken up the practice of law in Santa Ana.

Judge James declared that the appointments are based on endorsements made by members of the local bar associations because it is necessary to rely on the opinion of bar members in the community where the referee has jurisdiction. Because of the names which appear on Tarver's petition, he is entitled to "strong consideration," Judge James said.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

-- News Behind the News --

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

LAWS

The coming session of congress will talk big and do little.

Lame Ducks will clutter up both houses. Most of the eleven sitting weeks will be taken up with appropriation bills. There are 13 of them, more important now than ever before.

Major legislation will be enacted only as labeled: "Emergency Rush" by agreement of both parties.

BUDGET

First will come the bad news that the budget is still unbalanced. Strenuous measures will be proposed to make it balance by economies and tax revision. Some economies will be effected. They will hardly amount to as much as 25 per cent. A drive will be made against Veterans' expenditures. It will be partially successful. It probably will not eliminate disability allowances not directly traceable to war service, but that will be the objective.

The second step toward balancing the new budget will come through proposals for Tax Revision. The sales tax will be extended. Probably 3 per cent on general manufacturers' sales will be proposed. It will get further than it did last session. You cannot tell whether it will pass.

BEER

Prohibition changes will be made for business. They will not be enacted with anywhere near the speed now suggested by enthusiasts. A beer bill will unquestionably pass. A resolution for Repeal will be voted on in at least one house and it might pass but the chances are not good.

Drys will have a powerful weapon at hand—the filibuster. It can be conducted in these short sessions under cover.

MORTGAGES

Relief for farm mortgages will be given prior consideration. Some measure will be adopted. It will probably go along the line of consolidating the Federal Land Banks and Farm Loan Mortgage Banks into one system under government supervision. Financing will be through the R.F.C. The administration may offer a recommendation to this effect at the opening of the session.

BANKS

Banking reform legislation is in the making but they will let it cook during this session. Senator Glass intends to make many changes in his pending bill. Unified banking system is coming just as surely as a Democratic administration, probably shortly thereafter.

VETERANS

The cash bonus legislation will be voted on. Its chances depend on how much pressure the American Legion cares to exert. Veterans' organization may decide not to push it if they can get a promise that existing Veterans' appropriations will not be cut too much. That awap is in the making.

POWER

The St. Lawrence treaty will run into heavy opposition. A hidden minority is best on delaying action. It may become a majority. Some reservations will probably be made. Its fate is doubtful.

Power legislation will be discussed at length but no action taken. The following session of congress is the one which will ride the power companies. Stronger federal regulation is almost certain to be enacted then. The Norris plan for Muscle Shoals will also go through—not before.

R. F. C.

A congressional investigation of the R. F. C. will be advocated but probably delayed. Additional appropriations will be made so the Corporation can lend money to states for human relief purposes. Other minor relief measures will be adopted. No concerted program is now in sight. One may develop from demands around the first of the year. The R. F. C. allotment of $200,000,000 for relief loans will run dry then. The pressure for further Federal assistance will be twice as great as last year.

Large public works construction programs will be debated. The tendency will be to postpone action along these lines until Roosevelt gets in.

INVESTIGATION

Stock market regulation as advocated by Roosevelt is a long way off. It cannot be given necessary consideration in the short session. The senate stock market investigation may not be pressed unless the market misbehaves radically. Interested senators are too tied up in other things to devote the time to it in ordinary circumstances.

RAILS

Railroad legislation will be considered. Its nature depends on the reports to be made by the Coolidge committee and others. There is little prospect for any help unless both parties agree to put it through as an emergency step.

P. I.

Philippine independence legislation will be crowded and may not get through despite the lineup for it.

NOTES

Most of the Lame Ducks will slip into the practice of law in Washington. . . . That is a disguise used in lobbying for his clients. . . . Custom prevents a Supreme Court judge from delving in politics, but within legitimate bounds Justice Brandeis will lend all possible aid to the Roosevelt cause. . . . He is an ardent Liberal.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

AFTERMATH

The financial district's afterthoughts on the election are reflected by six practically unanimous sentiments.

(1) A feeling of immense relief that the tumult and the shouting are finally over.
(2) Pleasure that the Democratic victory was of landslide proportions, so that the party has a clear cut majority in both Houses and there is no question of a futile tug of war between the White House and the Capitol. Even staunch Republicans share this sentiment. If they had to lose they are glad they lost thoroughly.

(3) Belief that Roosevelt will be more open-minded to suggestions for the national welfare than his predecessor. As one leading broker expresses it: "Nobody could tell Hoover anything but maybe Roosevelt will be willing to listen."

(4) A fairly widespread opinion among authorities that the change is a good thing if only to prove that the United States is not a one party nation. "The Republicans were getting too complacent. They had had things too much their own way. They needed a shakeup for the good of the party and they certainly got it."

(5) Conviction that the change of Administration will have no practical effect on business for many months to come.

(6) Conviction that the Democrats haven't begun to realize what they're up against.

OPTIMISM

A growth of what might be called "compulsory optimism" among business and financial leaders can be confidently expected. Even though they are disappointed in the election, corporations and financial houses can hardly stop doing business and they certainly cannot build their businesses by telling prospective customers and clients that the new Administration is going to prevent prosperity.

COOPERATION

Informed New York doubts that any cooperation which may develop between Hoover and Roosevelt will take the form of personal contact. The personal angle might work to Roosevelt's disadvantage if the two did not see eye to eye. He would be in the undignified position of a kibitzer at a bridge game if Hoover chose to ignore his viewpoint.

This does not mean that there will be no cooperation. It will probably come about through close relations between Hoover and Congressional leaders on one side and between Roosevelt and the same Congressional leaders on one side and

REORGANIZATION

Reports that the Republicans may reorganize along more progressive lines—with Borah as one of the head men—are arousing a lot of interest here. The majority of local observers consider it possible but

SPONSOR NEW CONTEST FOR STRANGE FACTS

Another "Strange Facts" contest has been announced by Dr. E. H. Riesen, Santa Ana dentist who has been sponsoring the "Strange Facts" programs over radio KREG. To the person who contributes the most acceptable "Strange Fact" for use in the programs, by next Monday evening, Dr. Riesen will award a prize of one dollar.

Tonight the "Strange Facts" program will be broadcast at 6:45 with a new list of little known facts to be broadcast. According to the program director strange facts are not hard to find and any that have a popular appeal are acceptable. The winning "Strange Fact" of the latest contest was as follows: "Did you know that Commander Byrd's plane travelled in two directions at the same time when he flew over the South Pole? The nose of the ship was going north while the tail was still going south."

MALE QUARTET OF J. C. TO GO ON AIR

Presenting the new Santa Ana Junior College Male Quartet in their first radio appearance, the local jays will go on the air tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock from KREG, in their third program in their new afternoon series.

This new quartet has been organized at the Junior college under the direction of Allen Revell and is made up of Walter Workman, first tenor; Paul Allen, second tenor; Lawrence Ridenour, first bass; and Lawrence Ridenour, second bass. This new quartet has been organized to help fill the many engagements that college musical organizations are called upon to fill.

Numbers to be presented by the quartet include "Strumming," and "Little David Play on Your Harp." Other features include Miss Francis Bowman who will present two selected readings and Miss Mary Darnell who will sing popular numbers.

SECTION TO MEET
GARDEN GROVE, Nov. 16.—Mrs. W. H. Stennett, assisted by Mrs. John Farnsworth, will entertain the Booklovers' section of the Woman's Civic club at her home on Seventeenth street, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

unlike. They believe the traditional conservatism of the party is too much of an obstacle. Also the Democratic regime is to be "progressive" and the Republicans would gain little from a me too policy.

Much depends on what element becomes dominant among the Democrats. Southern and Northwest members of the party are large conservative and if they should capture the leadership it might give their opponents the incentive to "liberalize" as a counter-fort.

CABINET

Despite Roosevelt's announced moratorium on Cabinet discussions the subject is still a favorite theme in both political and financial circles here. While no one can speak with authority several shrewd guesses are possible. Harry Byrd of Virginia is thought here to have the best chance of any Southerner for a Cabinet appointment. This should be qualified by adding that Cordell Hull of Tennessee can have practically what he asks for. He may wish to avoid electoral strife two years from now.

Ex-headquarters workers favor the chances of Jos. C. Mahoney, of Wyoming as Secretary of the Interior rather than Dena of Utah. He was an extremely valuable assistant to Farley but got little publicity for his efforts.

New York is glad of McAdoo's election as Senator from California for just one reason. It removes him from the list of Cabinet possibilities.

GERMANY

Roosevelt's election did not excite German government circles. Opinion prevails that he will be pretty difficult to deal with on German private debts. When the time comes their ablest negotiator will be sent over here—probably Dr. Schacht.

Germans think Roosevelt will not interfere with their armament increase activities as Wilhelm Strasse reasons that Roosevelt will revise Hoover's active disarmament policies.

When the World Economic Conference meets Papan expects to obtain from the Roosevelt Administration moderate concessions for the German export industry if a way can be found to take American wheat in exchange. There is little active hope for speed here.

COLLEGIATE MUSIC POPULAR WITH FANS

The Van de Kamp bakeries' electrical transcriptions over KREG every Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings at 7:45 o'clock, have apparently struck a popular chord with the youngsters of Orange county and nearby communities.

The pulsating, collegiate programs of campus music, have won many tributes from Young America, to say nothing of the many footballs and basketballs which boys and girls have obtained at Van de Kamp bakeries.

Because of the success of these presentations, announcement is made that the Van de Kamp concern has renewed its contract with KREG to present its collegiate programs for another month. Each will be heard at 7:35 o'clock.

RESNICK PROGRAM FEATURED TONIGHT

S. Resnick, proprietor of one of Santa Ana's leading tailoring establishments, presents another program of popular music over KREG at 8:15 o'clock this evening. This will mark his third weekly program of the current month. Another Resnick program will be presented next Wednesday at the same hour.

For the past fifteen years, Resnick, has conducted tailoring establishment in Santa Ana, during which he has built up a large clientele.

This evening's program will feature selected hits of the day and the latest releases by noted artists and popular dance groups.

"One COLD after Another"

Is Usually the Same Cold Repeating Itself!

—Due to Ineffectual Treatment Methods!

Many times a person suffers three or four colds a season and thinks it is a different cold each time. As a matter of fact, it is often the same cold repeating itself, due to inadequate treatment methods. Only half-cured in the first place, the cold keeps coming back and all the time it keeps weakening your system and exposing you to more serious trouble.

A Cold Calls for a COLD Remedy!

There is no subject on which the public is in more need of information than the treatment of common colds and grippe. First of all, a cold is a cold and requires a COLD remedy. A preparation that is good for half a dozen other things besides colds can't be as effective a cold remedy as a cold calls for.

Many popular remedies which the public takes for colds often only make relief more difficult because they are constipating and also make the system acid.

It is also well to remember that a cold is an internal infection and, as such, calls for internal treatment. Local, or outside applications only relieve temporarily, if at all. They can't reach the seat of the trouble and can't prevent the infection from spreading within the system.

Ask your doctor and he'll probably tell you that the closest thing to an ideal cold remedy he knows of is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. In fact, many doctors frankly admit that they couldn't write a better prescription for a cold if they wanted to. Grove's

HOOKS and SLIDES by WILLIAM BRAUCHER

Usually when veteran observers of fighting get together, there is talk of Joe Gans, and most of them say he was the greatest fighter that ever threw leather.

But how much better was he than Tony Canzoneri, and how can it be proved? In his recent fight with Billy Petrolle, it seemed the little Italian boy from New Orleans had everything that a great ringman should have—and he had to use it to halt the fury of the Fargo Express.

This day and age has seen no better fights than that one, and few better fighters. Slashing attacks, clever defense, beautiful action all the way!

In the Shadows

The man who helped to send Tony to the ring was sitting back in the shadows now, unable to see the fine piece of fighting machinery that he helped to create. That man is Pete Herman, the old bantamweight champion, now nearly blind.

Pete was hearing the end of his spectacular career when Tony was just starting to come out. Young Canzoneri had been fighting at Johnny Galway's Gayoso club in New Orleans. He started as an amateur, weighing around 75 pounds.

The 13-year-old boy, when examined prior to his first fight, was declared to have a weak heart. His mother objected to his fighting, but the call of the ring was too loud in the boy's ears.

Finally, persuaded his mother that the rough boys of the ring couldn't hurt him, in this he was assisted by his father, who was proud of the little fellow's ability with his hands.

Herman had lost his title to Joe Lynch a short time before Tony began fighting, and the veteran bantamweight already was suffering from eye trouble that had been brought on by the pounding he took during his long and busy career in the ring.

"HERMAN, JUNIOR"

Pete became interested in the Italian lad, and wrote to his manager, Sammy Goldman, telling of the prowess of the boy.

One day Herman telegraphed to Goldman announcing that he was sending along a "Herman, Junior" and that he would give a good account of himself in any kind of a bout.

Goldman met the little fellow at the depot. For a time he kept him in the amateur ranks, patiently getting him ready for the rigors of professional competition.

Tony was 20 when he was given his first big assignment, six rounds against Jack Gardner at the Rockaway Beach club. And he knocked out his opponent in a round. The boy went on to win 19 out of 29 six-round bouts.

DECLARED THROUGH

When the new Madison Square Garden was opened, Tex Rickard offered a $500 prize to the boxer scoring the first knockout there. Tony was the winner. He went on to win the featherweight title from Benny Bass, and when he lost it to Andre Routsis four years ago, the belief was expressed that he was all washed up.

But he came on again as a lightweight, working his way up to a match with Sammy Mandell three years ago. He lost again, and many boxing writers declared he was all through as a fighter.

He started another campaign and just as he was beginning to click, along came Billy Petrolle and beat him in his next to last fight in 1930.

Undaunted, Tony carried on, and won the lightweight championship by a one-round knockout out of Al Singer—and it was a fight in which he had not been figured to have a chance.

Now he stands with the slate cleaned, his victory over Petrolle in one of the greatest fights of the year establishing beyond all doubt that he is the greatest fighter of our time.

Maybe Gans was greater. I don't know how it could be shown.

Brown-Colgate Game Victor Gets Jan. 1 Bid

PASADENA FOLK FAVOR EASTERN COLOR BEARERS

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—It isn't generally admitted; in fact, the matter is more or less tacitly ignored by any and all parties concerned. Yet everybody and his maiden aunt from Cohoes seem to know that when Brown and Colgate meet at Providence Thanksgiving Day, it will be strictly a table-stakes game, on the basis of winner-take-all, including what they think they have reason to believe will be the Rose Bowl jacket with Southern California on New Year's Day.

This pair is no more material and commercially-minded than the average college seeking glorified notoriety through a national championship. Neither are they of a mind to spurn the fat guarantee which last year played to $8,000, though times were none too tender.

In fact, they are frankly seeking both and it is understood now that one or the other of them will get the spot.

Auburn Bid Has Merit

Alabama Poly seems to be on its way to the southern championship and what with one thing and another, including the attractive showmanship of the Notre Dame system, its candidacy would not be without merit if it wasn't for the fact that the Rose Bowl people probably feel that they have had more than their share of Southern teams during recent years.

Alabama has been there twice. The two Georgia teams, Tech and the Bulldogs, each have given the thing a whirl. Tulane was in there last year. Poly, therefore, hasn't too great a chance, even if it wants one and, personally, I have no way of knowing that it does.

Neither do I profess to know that it is altogether eliminated, for it might turn out to be the best available entry, as has been the case with so many Southern teams. Some of them have been so good, in fact, that California and Washington would have been just as well pleased if the committee had declared through. When the new Madison Square Garden was opened, Tex Rickard offered a $500 prize to the boxer scoring the first knockout there. Tony was the winner. He went on to win the featherweight title from Benny Bass, and when he lost it to Andre Routsis four years ago, the belief was expressed that he was all washed up.

State To Be Repaid Bond Issue Money

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 16.—(UP)—A friendly suit to determine the manner of reimbursing the state $1,055,000 for its bond issue floated to insure success of the recent Olympic Games, was considered today at the xth Olympiad Committee.

The committee authorized the action to decide whether the money shall go directly into the state's general fund or be applied specifically to retire the issue. The suit also will entail settlement of other Olympic surpluses, aggregating more than $400,000. The suit will be incepted in the state supreme court.

Zach Farmer, secretary of the committee, said it is the first time in state history that the commonwealth will be reimbursed for similar expenditures. Profits from the Games were sufficient to secure the refunds.

COOK TO START SHOCK TROOPS AGAINST URBAN

Strong and as capable as its impressive record indicates, Urban school of Los Angeles promises to break Santa Ana junior college's perfect string of non-conference victories in a night football game at Municipal Bowl Friday.

The Westwood delegation, having defeated Los Angeles and Glendale junior colleges by one touchdown and barely losing to the U. C. L. A. freshmen, will take the field on an equal, if not higher, level than Coach Bill Cook's Dons, who defeated the U. S. C. Frosh, 13-7, the Loyola Frosh, 7-6, and the U. S. S. Saratoga navy eleven, 26-6.

"We plan to beat Urban, but win or lose, I shall give most of my reserves a chance to show that they want to get in the Fullerton game Thanksgiving Day," Cook said today.

The Don mentor, however, will not hold back his best talent. He will start with the reserves, leave them in as long as they perform satisfactorily, and then jerk them in favor of his regulars.

Experimenting with the reserves yesterday, Coach Cook lined up a combination of Clarence Lewis and Byron Stoddard, ends; Ray Nowotny and Tom Hollen, tackles; Glen Kluthe and Rodney Yould, guards; and a backfield of Bill McDaniel, quarter; Paul Jungkeit and Zeno Shelley, halfbacks; and Jim Daneri, full. Garth Olsen alternated with Yould.

Opposing this group were "Tex" Harris and Tom Carlyle, ends; Dick Smith and Dick Heffern, tackles; "Swede" Williams and Bob Hafer, guards; and a backfield of Bill McDaniel, quarter; Fred Bell and Hideo Kikuchi, halfbacks; and Wally Smith, full. Jim Lash and Toby Groenow alternated with Harris and Carlyle, and Lucius Conkey with Heffern. The latter is considered the first string, with the exception of Hafer, standing guard.

These two squads engaged in a regular scrimmage, played the length of the field. Not all of the first group showed starting ability, and unless some of them improve, they will replace them with regulars Friday.

With Captain Jack Fredericks, regular guard, and Harold Welty, regular quarter and fullback, out of the lineup indefinitely, the Don mentor must find replacements for these men before the Fullerton game.

Fredericks has three broken ribs. Welty tore the ligaments of his left knee in the Charney game and is on crutches, his knee swollen twice its normal size. Cook has "Tex" Bowden, Daneri and W. Smith to fill Welty's position, but it will be more difficult to replace Fredericks. Heffern, tackles, knows the standing guard position, as does Hafer and Kluthe, and the Dons should have a regular for this post before Thanksgiving Day.

Los Angeles Signs Valley Loop Star

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 16.—(UP)—Henry Warren, 18-year-old shortstop of the Sacramento club of the Valley league, has signed a contract with the Los Angeles Angels. Manager Jack Livelt announced today. Livelt brought back glowing reports of the youngster after watching him perform last Sunday.

Harbor Ball Club To Be Organized

NEWPORT BEACH, Nov. 16.—A move to organize a baseball team in the Newport Harbor district has been started by some of the players who were active when this community had a team in an Orange County league some years ago.

The ground used at that time, on Newport boulevard, between 20th and 21st streets in Costa Mesa, is to be put in shape for the diamond pasture and a practice game staged Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, according to the present plans. It was stated by Art Winderling, one of the active proponents of the scheme.

ANDERSON SAYS NOTRE DAME TEAM UNDERESTIMATES FOES

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Nov. 16.—(INS)—Notre Dame's football gladiators will have to snap out of their seeming lethargy if they are to conquer the army and Southern California this year.

No less an authority than "Hunk" Anderson came out with this assertion today. Asked whether in his opinion Notre Dame has a chance to beat the Army and U. S. C., the Ramblers' coach responded:

"I'll answer that somewhat in the manner of the politicians: 'Yes, and again no.'"

"We can beat the Army and Southern California," Coach Anderson continued, "but, we'll never do it unless we play better ball than we've shown so far. Even the Navy game at Cleveland Saturday will be a battle."

"The boys this year can't seem to understand that all of our opponents are primed for their encounters with us, and that any group of eleven strong boys, fairly well coached and desperately trying to win, might manage to upset an equal number of fellows who still are playing on the strength of early season laudatory press notices."

"We looked great against the Haskell Indians, Drake and Carnegie Tech. So good, in fact, that the team figured it had the National championship already in the bag. Then along came Pittsburgh, judging from the showing against Northwest-ern last Saturday, the boys haven't recovered from that Pittsburgh licking yet."

BIG TEN TEAMS WIND UP GRID RACE SATURDAY

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—(UP)—The Big Ten football campaign will end Saturday and five conference games on the schedule, the most important of which is the Minnesota-Michigan battle for the "Little Brown Jug" at Minneapolis.

For Michigan the game will mean more than retaining possession of the "Little Brown Jug." It means the Big Ten Championship. If Michigan wins, the Wolverines will capture undisputed possession of the conference title.

Should Michigan lose, Purdue can win the title outright by defeating Indiana at Lafayette. If Michigan ties and Purdue wins, those two schools will share the title.

The other Big Ten games this week are Ohio State-Illinois at Champaign, Wisconsin-Chicago at Chicago, and Northwestern-Iowa at Evanston.

LEE VICTOR AS DELHI REOPENS TO FISTIC FANS

Highly encouraged by the attendance and enthusiasm which greeted the resumption of his promotional activities, Matchmaker Kid Mexico announced today that he and Owner Sam Sampson would come right back next Tuesday with another amateur boxing program at the Orange County Athletic club.

Perhaps the largest crowd that has been inside the Delhi road arena this year was attracted by the "opener" under the Sampson-Mexico banner last night.

Knockout Lee, 160-pound middleweight, originally from New Orleans, gave indication that he might be developed into a Delhi "card" by the ease with which he disposed of Chris Santos in the main event. Throwing his confidence and skill that belied his supposed inexperience, Lee felled Santos early in the first round, knocked him out before the end of the heat.

Game Orsco Loses

Although he wasn't in the same league as far as real ability was concerned, Johnny Orsco, Santa Ana, survived two rounds with the hard-hitting "Brassie" Mitchell before the San Pedro star administered the finishing touch with a left to the jaw. This was the semi-windup.

Perhaps the star bout of the show was the feature preliminary between Raul Solis of Delhi and Carlo Carlson of San Pedro, 120-pounders. One judge picked Solis and one Carlson so Referee Bob White decided by selecting Solis. The verdict was unpopular with the house which forgot that draw decisions are not allowable in amateur contests.

Jack Lujan, Pico, scored a technical knockout over Obie Brown, Fullerton colored welterweight, in another affray that was close while it lasted. They were pretty even after two rounds but Lujan was the stronger and Brown's corner threw in the towel to save their charge unnecessary punishment in the last frame.

Hernandez Stops Torres

Manuel Hernandez knocked out gritty little Johnny Torres in a bout that saw both boys on the floor more than once.

Art Hernandez, Anaheim, knocked Mack Ochoa cold in the second heat.

Alex Vanzuela stopped Fred Olevis in two, and Barney Duran outpointed Manuel Cruz.

Sal Solis nosed out Chris Solorz in a close one, White having to pick the winner for the judges who were divided in opinion.

Pete Torres shaded Frank Alvarez, the former scoring two knockdowns in the first round that turned the tide in his favor.

No less an authority than "Hunk" Anderson came out with this assertion today. Asked whether in his opinion Notre Dame has a chance to beat the Army and U. S. C., the Ramblers' coach responded:

"I'll answer that somewhat in the manner of the politicians: 'Yes, and again no.'"

"We can beat the Army and Southern California," Coach Anderson continued, "but, we'll never do it unless we play better ball than we've shown so far. Even the Navy game at Cleveland Saturday will be a battle."

"The boys this year can't seem to understand that all of our opponents are primed for their encounters with us, and that any group of eleven strong boys, fairly well coached and desperately trying to win, might manage to upset an equal number of fellows who still are playing on the strength of early season laudatory press notices."

"We looked great against the Haskell Indians, Drake and Carnegie Tech. So good, in fact, that the team figured it had the National championship already in the bag. Then along came Pittsburgh, judging from the showing against Northwest-ern last Saturday, the boys haven't recovered from that Pittsburgh licking yet."

Los Angeles Signs Valley Loop Star

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 16.—(UP)—Henry Warren, 18-year-old shortstop of the Sacramento club of the Valley league, has signed a contract with the Los Angeles Angels. Manager Jack Livelt announced today. Livelt brought back glowing reports of the youngster after watching him perform last Sunday.

Harbor Ball Club To Be Organized

NEWPORT BEACH, Nov. 16.—A move to organize a baseball team in the Newport Harbor district has been started by some of the players who were active when this community had a team in an Orange County league some years ago.

The ground used at that time, on Newport boulevard, between 20th and 21st streets in Costa Mesa, is to be put in shape for the diamond pasture and a practice game staged Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, according to the present plans. It was stated by Art Winderling, one of the active proponents of the scheme.

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Nov. 16.—(INS)—Notre Dame's football gladiators will have to snap out of their seeming lethargy if they are to conquer the army and Southern California this year.

No less an authority than "Hunk" Anderson came out with this assertion today. Asked whether in his opinion Notre Dame has a chance to beat the Army and U. S. C., the Ramblers' coach responded:

Uncle Sam Due For $35,000 From Big Game

BERKELEY, Nov. 16.—(UP)—The annual football game between University of California and Stanford in Memorial stadium here Saturday will be a profitable affair—for Uncle Sam.

If the game fills the stadium, which has a capacity of 79,403, the Federal government will receive, under the 10 per cent tax, a net total of $35,400. With less than 2000 tickets remaining unsold, a capacity crowd was in prospect.

Except for 12,000 student tickets, the admission card-boards for the game cost $5.50 each. The total gate is expected to be $389,000 with Stanford and California each receiving $176,800.

State Department Head
Examines Problems
Facing Schools

High school enrollment, which has increased 61 per cent since the World War, will suffer severe cuts in attendance along with other educational institutions if trends now apparent in the field of education materials, Mrs. C. H. K. Kjosle, state chairman of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, warned members of the Santa Ana Women's club yesterday. Her address followed a luncheon in the Doris Kathryn Tea Shoppe.

Replete with figures cited in support of arguments advanced, Mrs. Kjosle's address was calculated to make her listeners ponder over the wisdom of contemplated budget cuts which would deny government school support beyond the tenth grade and which might eventually eliminate the junior college.

"We cannot declare a moratorium on intelligence and expect an intelligent public," Mrs. Kjosle urged in pointing out that 70 per cent of present day crime is committed by persons who never finished the sixth grade.

School Economy
Other significant figures quoted by the speaker revealed that whereas only 2.7 per cent of the state income is expended on schools, Californians expended 4.6 per cent for cosmetics and tobacco; that the department of education has cut its annual budget 25 million, a sum equal to just half of the total reduction of state expenses in the same period.

The state chairman sketched the history of education in this country over a period of 300 years, touching upon the origin of the kindergarten, the first high schools and universities, the work of Horace Mann, and the present direction of a new development: adult education, which has three outstanding centers in San Jose, Tulare and Long Beach.

Mrs. J. D. Ward, president, announced that the club would entertain the board of Orange County Federated Women's clubs at the Legion hall December 5 at an all day meeting and luncheon, beginning at 10 o'clock. The club's customary meeting on the following day, December 6, will be restricted to business. Reservations for the luncheon December 8 should be made with Mrs. William H. Whitehead.

Mrs. W. C. Watkins, program chairman yesterday, who was introduced by Mrs. Whitehead, club program director, presented Mrs. Robert Korff, flutist, who played two selections accompanied by Mrs. James H. Blee; and introduced the Women's club chorus, which sang. Dr. Evalene Fox conducted an instructive question period with regard to taxes to which contributed Mrs. A. J. Knight and Mrs. Charles Hoehm. Mrs. Charles Stanley and Mrs. A. E. Green were assigned reports for the next study period.

Mrs. W. M. Wells announced that the Social section would meet next Tuesday at 2 o'clock with Mrs. William Castler, 539 Spurgeon street, with Mrs. J. G. Limbird serving as assistant hostesses. Mrs. F. H. Hornbeck was received as a new member.

Book Reviewed Before
Ebell Group Proves
Character Study

"The Romantic Adventures of Mr. Darby and His Wife, Sarah," novel by Martin Armstrong, proved as humorous as they were romantic as reviewed by Mrs. Aldrie H. Worswick before the First Book Review section of Ebell yesterday. Section members met as guests of Mrs. Oliver L. Halsey of 2218 North Broadway, whose hostess obligations were shared with Mrs. E. E. Farnsworth and Mrs. Leta Morton. Descriptive of character, rather than of action, Mr. Armstrong's novel concerns an Englishman in whom conceit and bombast are old-fashioned contrasts with whimsy and the qualities of the dreamer, according to Mrs. Worswick. Still further contrast, she pointed out, is offered in the author's portrait of Mr. Darby's wife, a forthright individual with practical virtues which cross those of her husband with amusing effect. Mr. Darby's inheritance of a million dollars puts him in the class of the fortune create further humorous situations, from which the reviewer quoted freely.

Dr. Heister Oldewiler presided at a coffee urn at the review's close, when guests gathered about a table handsomely decorated with yellow chrysanthemums and harmonizing tapers. Books appropriate for Christmas gifts will be suggested by Mrs. J. H. Cloyes in a review to be presented at the next meeting of this section.

Do you know that apple and cabbage salad is a delightful combination?

Shred the cabbage fine (for a family of six use half of a small head). Chiff well and at serving time add an equal amount of ripe apples, cut julienne (in small thin strips). Dress with a thin tangy mayonnaise strongly flavored with mustard.

Be sure and mix it right at serving time, otherwise the mayonnaise curdles and gets funny looking.

And do you know that old-fashioned vinegar sauce is twice as good as lemon sauce with spicy steamed puddings?

In a sauce pan melt 2 tablespoons of butter and blend with the same amount of flour. Add to this a cupful of sugar, about one-fourth cup of strong vinegar, and two big cups of boiling water. Stir over a brisk fire until the sauce thickens slightly and becomes quite clear, then season with nutmeg and keep hot in a double boiler.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Curried Lamb

4 medium sized onions, chopped fine
4 apples, chopped fine
1 green pepper
2 cloves of garlic
2-3 cup bacon fat or butter
1-2 teaspoon cayenne
1 or more tablespoons curry powder

Salt and pepper
About 2 quarts of good brown gravy
Sliced roast lamb, ad lib
Boiled rice

Either one's family likes curry extravagantly or they can't bear even the looks of the dish; my family sits on the fence, half of them taking curry and the other half demanding steak and so it goes—a poor woman never gets a break!

Run the apples, green pepper and onions through the food chopper and let them fry in the fat until soft, then add the minced garlic, the curry powder and other seasonings. Stir the mixture for another five minutes before turning it into the kettle of hot gravy and sliced roast lamb. Cover and let it barely simmer for an hour to mix flavors.

And right here a word about curry powder. Don't waste your money on the domestic kind. It is absolutely no good. An imported curry powder costs four times as much but it goes miles further and your food tastes as it should. Cook plenty of rice, in gallons of boiling salty water, and when it is done, drain it, rinse well under the hot water tap, drain again and set back to re-heat. Rice so rinsed loses a tremendous amount of loose starch, thus lessening the danger of too many curvies.

An average helping of curry and rice will run to a good round 500 calories, more than half of which belongs in the energy-fat making class, the rest in the tissue-builders.

A cooked (leafy) vegetable and a raw salad should go with curry and rice; in my house Spinach and lettuce are usually received with loud burrs. Incidentally, they are fine digestive aids.

The Receipt of the Month—November, describes the making of a Carrot Ring and Creamed Chicken with Almonds. Can you think of a more interesting and colorful luncheon dish? You may have the leaflet free this week by asking for it, but please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing purpose.

Sycamore Members Join
To Honor Wedding Anniversary

When members of Sycamore Rebekah lodge met Saturday night in I.O.O.F. hall, they commemorated two prominent members, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Cozad, in observance of their golden wedding anniversary.

Present to do honor to Mr. and Mrs. Cozad were many of the long time members of the organization. Significant of the nature of the occasion were the chrysanthemums in deep red, rust, orange and yellow tones which were arranged throughout the hall. Mrs. Rhoda Heiss, noble grand, presided over the meeting.

Among special guests were Mrs. Marie Faulk, district deputy and Mrs. Mae Mansberger, district deputy marshal, both of Westminster. Mrs. Duncan, past noble grand of Colorado lodge, also was present.

As Mr. and Mrs. Cozad entered, they were escorted to the noble grand by a staff of 24 officers. Mrs. Sam Jernigan, in behalf of the 1916 degree staff, of which Mr. Cozad was captain, gave an interesting talk. Then, with Mrs. Grace Gross playing the wedding march, the honored guests marched past the officers, each of whom presented Mr. Cozad with sunflowers and Mrs. Cozad with yellow chrysanthemums. The flowers were arranged in a large tulle basket.

After Mrs. Heiss, as mistress of ceremonies, had extended welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Cozad, a program which had been arranged by Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Taylor, was given.

A chorus from Frances Willard junior high school gave musical numbers; Mrs. Maude Riley gave readings, "Unaware" and "Fifty Years of Happiness," the latter prepared especially to honor the Cozads. La Verne Stovall, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Stovall, played a piano solo.

Roy Bishop gave a talk dedicated to Mr. and Mrs. Cozad at the close of which he presented the honored guests with an envelope containing gold coins from members of Rebekah and Odd Fellows lodges of Santa Ana and Westminster.

Mr. and Mrs. Cozad led the march to the dining room, where refreshments were served under the supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Paul. Honored guests and their family were seated at a central table, decorated with a snow scene and members of a bridal party. Lodge emblems had their place in the decorative scheme. A large decorated wedding cake was cut by Mrs. Cozad.

There are exactly two dozen members in the Cozad family circle, and 26 of these were present for the Sycamore celebration. They were Mrs. John A. Scott and Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Ellis; Long Beach; Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Pifer and son, Leroy; Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. L. D. McDaniel and son and daughters, Lemuel and Linda; and Simeon T. Cozad, Westminster; Mrs. Vernona M. Goetz and twin daughters, Pauline and Maurine; and Mr. and Mrs. E. Blanton, Glendale; Mr. and Mrs. William J. Cozad and daughter and son, Mary Lou and William, Balboa Island.

Absent members were the son-in-law, John A. Scott, a veteran of the World War now in a Canadian hospital, and who at the time of his enlistment was a member of the famous Canadian Mounted Police; a granddaughter, Miss Margaret M. Ellis, who is in training in the Los Angeles Children's hospital, and a granddaughter, Lois Finster Modjeska and her husband, Felix B. Modjeska, who were out of the city.

Among those coming from a distance to attend last night's Cantando club concert in the high school auditorium, were Mr. Sabich, head of the Whittier School for Boys, and Mrs. Sabich, who were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Owen R. Owen of Anaheim. Mrs. Sabich is herself a vocalist of note, and expressed warm enthusiasm for the local organization and its work.

In-law, John A. Scott, a veteran of the World War now in a Canadian hospital, and who at the time of his enlistment was a member of the famous Canadian Mounted Police; a granddaughter, Miss Margaret M. Ellis, who is in training in the Los Angeles Children's hospital, and a granddaughter, Lois Finster Modjeska and her husband, Felix B. Modjeska, who were out of the city.

Union Auxiliary Makes
Plans for Future
Activities

Women's auxiliary to Santa Ana Typographical union No. 579 disposed of important business and made plans for future activities when members met Monday evening as guests of Mrs. Jesse Swanger in her home, 921 West Fairview avenue. Mrs. F. E. Stillwell assisted in entertaining.

During the business meeting, in charge of the president, Mrs. R. C. Butler, the group voted on constitution amendments which had been presented at the recent I. T. U. convention held in Long Beach. It was moved to send in a check to headquarters for the home fund.

Women of the auxiliary are to have a social meeting Monday afternoon, November 23, in the new home of Mrs. Charles Clayton at Orange Park acres. There will be bridge and sewing during the afternoon. The next regular meeting is to be held in the home of Mrs. William Lawrence, 1022 Halladay street, Monday evening December 12. Plans were made for a party to be held sometime in January, with union members as guests.

Members concluded the evening playing cards and sewing. The hostesses served delicious refreshments, in concluding their hospitality.

Those present were Mesdames R. C. Butler, Warren Brakeman, Joe Randall, F. E. Stillwell, E. E. Frisby, C. M. Marvin, Charles Clayton, William Lawrence, V. C. Shidler, J. W. Parkinson, J. C. Hurst and Jesse Swanger.

National Observance Shared by Local Association

Holding a silver anniversary luncheon as their part in the worldwide celebration of the 25th birthday of the Young Women's Christian association, members of the local chapter met yesterday noon in the Y. W. rooms for an unusually happy occasion.

A large group of members and guests attended the luncheon, which was presided by a leadership conference for board and committee members of the association. This was conducted by Mrs. Ernest Cleverdon, at present connected with Pomona college. She is a national committee worker, and past president of the San Diego Y. W.

Coming as a pretty little ceremony was a feature of the luncheon hour, when Mrs. John Tessmann cut a decorated birthday cake, topped with 25 candles. The program following included vocal solos by Holly Lash Vissel, accompanied at the piano by Ione Tunison Peek.

Mrs. Earl Morris gave the history of the national Y. W. C. A. board and Mrs. W. W. Hoy gave an account of Y. W. activities in foreign fields.

Table appointments for the luncheon were carried out in silver. Mrs. John Henderson, president, was in charge of the business session. The silver offering taken is to be sent to the national board in observance of the 25th birthday anniversary.

Exchange Houses Ship 6535 Cars Of Valencias In Year

SHORTER CROP PREDICTED FOR NEXT SEASON

ORANGE, Nov. 16.—The valencia orange season for the southern part of the county has closed with shipments through Exchange houses of 6535 cars of valencias and 450 cars of lemons. Previously there were shipped approximately 150 cars of lemons, grapefruit and miscellaneous varieties. The long hoped for rise in prices for the clean up of valencias has at last arrived and this should have a stabilizing effect on distribution of shipments for the season to come, according to Exchange officials.

Indications are that the crop for next season in this section will be approximately 10 per cent short of this year's and while sizes promised to be better on the first of October, the dry weather during the last 30-day period has seriously interfered with this outlook. There was considerable burning of foliage during the wind late in October and this is particularly noticeable in groves where soil moisture had not been maintained.

Quite heavy shipments of lemons are expected from Central California during the next two weeks, but the late shipments from Florida this year have been of material help in boosting the valencia market. There should be a strong healthy clean up with prices well above any of those realized during the earlier shipping periods, according to C. C. Hells, manager of the Orange County Fruit Exchange.

FRENCH OPERATIONS

PARIS—French air services, including lines in Africa, Asia and South America, traveled a distance of 23,152 miles last year. About 233 of these miles were operated in co-operation with other companies. France led all other European countries in this respect. Germany ranked second.

MEMBERS OF 4 CIRCLES WORK ON AID BAZAAR

ORANGE, Nov. 16.—Members of the four Ladies Aid circles of the First Methodist church sewed on articles for the church bazaar when they met yesterday for monthly sessions. They covered dish lunches at noon.

Circle No. 1 was entertained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Hemphill, Yorba street, Tustin. Miss Emma Corson was assistant hostess. During a business session, plans were made for a Christmas party to be held in December. There will be exchange of gifts at this time.

Mrs. Anna Greene, president, was in charge of the meeting, and Mrs. O. U. Hull conducted devotionals. Luncheon was served at noon and was followed by sewing for the bazaar. Mrs. Hemphill entertained with organ selections, and group singing was enjoyed during the afternoon.

Those present were Mesdames George Moody, J. B. Kilgore, Frank Palmer, Kate S. Griffith, Henry Shaffert, Cornelia Hawkins, R. W. Hull, Sarah Davis, Elizabeth White, Cora L. Reynolds, Ida Cumberland, Myrtle Pierce, Henry Gault, Kate Kelsner, Henry Rogers, G. W. Hodgson and daughter, La Verne; O. U. Hull, J. A. Greene, Carl Stuckey, Yost, G. C. Mondell, Sarah A. Bomb and the hostesses, Mrs. Hemphill and Miss Emma Corson.

Circle No. 2 members met at the Epworth hall, where a delectable luncheon was served at noon and the afternoon passed pleasantly over quilt frames. One comforter was tied and quilting continued on a quilt. The work was made easier by the addition of a new quilt frame placed on a firm and permanent standard which was made by Ross Evans and the material furnished by Mrs. Leah Clucas.

Mrs. Clara Whitehead, president, was in charge of the meeting and gave out self-denial bags. Each member is to deny herself of small pleasures or articles and the money which would have been spent is to be placed in the bags to be opened later in the year. It is expected that many interesting experiences will be related of how the money was saved when the bags are opened. One dollar is the objective of the self-denials of each member.

Plans were outlined for the bazaar which is to be held on November 30 and several small articles were completed for the affair. J. A. Green was a guest of the circle at luncheon and devotionals were conducted by Mrs. Green. Those present were Mrs. Whitehead, Mrs. C. C. Bennett, Mrs. G. W. Long, Mrs. C. F. Ober, Mrs. W. T. Syester, Mrs. J. E. Vaughn, Mrs. George Marloff, Mrs. Alice Evans, Mrs. W. D. Moore, Mrs. Ada Atkinson, Mrs. Leah Clucas, Mrs. Elizabeth Bralisher, Mrs. J. J. Wagers, Miss Leah Pennard, Mrs. O. A. Long, Mrs. F. E. Dennis, Miss Jennie Evans, Mrs. T. E. Dennis, Mrs. Roy Cox, Mrs. J. A. Green and Mrs. Fred Scharr.

Circle No. 3
Mrs. Addie Kenyon and her daughter, Miss Lulu Kenyon, opened their lovely home on North Orange street for the meeting of Circle No. 3 with Mrs. Claudia Boyer presiding at the brief business session. Roll call was answered with Thanksgiving poems and Thanksgiving readings were given by Mrs. Jay Perry and Mrs. P. I. Bird. Following the luncheon sewing was done for welfare work.

Present were Miss Tessie Winters, Mrs. Cotner, Mrs. Mary Edwards, Mrs. Venn, Mrs. Ethel Brinnell, Mrs. J. R. Kenyon, Mrs. Jay Perry, Mrs. Typhens Wright, Mrs. B. L. Bird, Mrs. Elizabeth Chesley, Mrs. Claudia Boyer, Mrs. C. D. Hutchins, Mrs. R. T. Terhune, Mrs. C. E. Rozelle, Mrs. Mary Lord, Mrs. C. F. Pine, Mrs. W. W. Parks, Mrs. D. J. Ruddy, Mrs. D. E. Claypool, Mrs. M. M. Fishback, Miss Mamie Carey, Mrs. J. E. Green, Mrs. S. M. Patton and the hostesses, Mrs. and Miss Kenyon.

The next meeting is to be in the home of Mrs. Terhune.

Circle No. 4
Mrs. George Smith was hostess to Circle No. 4, entertaining in her home, 678 North Shaffer street. During the meeting, Mrs. John Stinson was elected secretary-treasurer, to succeed Miss Elsie Parsons, who resigned that office.

The day was spent in tying comforters, piecing quilt blocks and doing other needlework. Members decided to have no December meeting. Mrs. H. Z. Sawyer presided over the business meeting.

Those present were Mesdames H. M. Elliott, Sadie Elson, Sophia Lusk, John Stinson, E. L. Sufferin, H. Z. Sawyer, F. A. Wiley, Blanche Campbell, Mary Gross, Mrs. Smith, the hostess, and Miss Elsie Parsons.

SCENIC DRIVE, SUBDIVISION PROPOSED FOR OLIVE AREA; CIVIC BODY NAMES OFFICERS

OLIVE, Nov. 16.—Election of officers took place at the annual meeting of the Olive Improvement association in the social hall of St. Paul's Lutheran church last evening. The nominating committee, composed of C. O. Heim, Fred Guenther, sr., and Ed Meierhoff, nominated A. J. Lee, Mrs. E. B. McCoy, Frank B. Maxwell, E. C. Conger, C. O. Heim, Ed Meierhoff, and Robert Paulus, sr., as members of the board of directors.

The slate was unanimously elected and organized as follows: A. J. Lee, president; E. C. Conger, vice president; Mrs. E. B. McCoy, secretary-treasurer; and F. B. Maxwell, C. O. Heim, Ed Meierhoff and Robert Paulus, directors. The various committee members will be appointed at the next meeting.

Mrs. E. B. McCoy, member of the public improvement committee, reported that negotiations had been begun with the Bixby ranch looking to the creation of a scenic drive. Should present plans materialize, a new street will be opened, following the crest of the hill north of the present city limits. The proposed drive would follow Canyon way north of the grammar school, follow the crest line east and connect either with Oceanview avenue or with Tustin avenue.

Fred Bixby of the Bixby ranch expressed himself as favorable to the idea and will endeavor to have the Bixby company grant a strip of land, 30 feet wide, along the north side of Olive for the creation of the drive. Added to the city's 30 feet it would make a 60-foot road. Bixby stated that if the plan is realized, a portion of the ranch would be sub-divided into lots and several homes erected. The improvement association received the report enthusiastically, realizing the importance of this.

ARRANGE YULE CELEBRATION OF CLUB SECTION

ORANGE, Nov. 16.—Plans for the annual Christmas party were made at the meeting of the Third Household Economics section of the Orange Woman's club at the clubhouse Tuesday. The party will be held December 20 in the home of Mrs. H. O. Russell, section leader. Inexpensive gifts are to be exchanged.

A large number of toys and garments were brought to the clubhouse and Mrs. N. U. Potter, Mrs. G. L. Niles, Mrs. George Schroeder, Mrs. Roy Buckles, Mrs. Henry Heuck and Mrs. Russell volunteered to remodel the garments which are to be given to needy families.

The committee to pack the boxes included Mrs. George Baier, Mrs. Louis Froesefer, Mrs. Elvira Otto and Mrs. William Batt. The committee to make purchases for the boxes is composed of the executive board of the section and Mrs. V. A. Wood and Mrs. Ed Dierker.

Mrs. Charlotte Eck, of Dayton, Ohio, mother of Mrs. Christine Lambert, who was the guest of the section, gave a talk of interest, outlining welfare work done in that city, where she said the need for such work has been very acute, some families not even having thread with which to sew.

Hostesses were Mrs. Leroy Valente and Mrs. Kenneth A. King. A Thanksgiving motif was carried out in the decorations and small chrysanthemums decked the tea table where candies in yellow and orange were placed in silver holders.

Hostesses at the December meeting are to be Mrs. S. V. Mansur, Mrs. Nora Evans and Mrs. Paul Muech. After the business meeting the afternoon was spent at bridge, with Mrs. Nora Evans and Mrs. G. L. Niles prize winners.

Guild Members
Sew For Needy

ORANGE, Nov. 16.—Members of the Alice Lewis guild of the First Presbyterian church met in the Friendly Hand classroom of the church Monday evening for a sewing session. They spent the time in piecing quilts, making girls' print dresses and completing baby garments, all of which are to be distributed among local families.

Those present were Mesdames Hazel Hobbs, Anna Tibbetts, Agnes Pister, Ernestine Nightingale, Lois Davis, Fern Carpenter, Dorothy Spencer, Lillian Wescott, Ruth Riggie and Frances Estes.

B. & P. W. CLUB GIVEN REPORTS ON CONVENTION

ORANGE, Nov. 16.—Reports of the district meeting of Business and Professional Woman's clubs and the U. C. L. A. campus were given at the meeting of the Orange club Monday night in the Woman's clubhouse lobby. Miss Adelaide Proctor, president and Mrs. Iva Lee were the delegates and gave the reports.

Guests were Mrs. Charles Eck, who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Christine Lambert; Mrs. Neal Johnson, of Orange; Dr. Florence A. Brown, Miss Louise Kiese and Mrs. Oelia Harden Davis, of Santa Ana.

Mrs. Lambert announced that the song contest which was to have closed at the meeting would be carried over until the next meeting as the soloist who was to have sung the songs was not present.

A card party will be featured at the next meeting and Miss Matie Dannemann is the chairman of the committee in charge. Hostesses were Mrs. Lotta Brandon and Mrs. Iva Lee. Bridge and tango were played. The bridge prize was awarded to Miss Adelaide Proctor and the tango prize to Miss Dannemann.

Bright Dresses Under Coats

Some of the bright dresses glimpsed beneath coats at recent fashionable affairs were of the new greens, the many new shades of red, including a wine, and a sprinkling of purple and hyacinth blue.

—B-A—

GREEN GABLES, 215 N. Main.

My goodness! Dresses have all got the blues—Periwinkle and Hyacinth blues are the most prevalent. And since everybody must have at least one long, sweeping dinner dress this season, why not that periwinkle blue model at GREEN GABLES, with the silver lace yoke and, of course, the jacket to slip on for street. It's quite alluring; and are many more of the new numbers just in at "Your Fashion Shop"—for instance, the unusual in a gold crepe with reddish bronze vest or yoke affair. Two stunning dinner frocks are a bronze with brilliant studded buttons, and a gold with black crepe collar and bow-knot short sleeves, with jacket of same. Don't miss seeing these new models that come in bl- and tri-weekly.

FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

The Thins sliding shortly were a path right through the hay. What's more, the path grew very smooth and they all had a lot of fun.

The old scarecrow laughed out in glee. "This really takes my breath," said he. "But I am pretty good, 'cause I have shown you how it's done."

"You're right," said Scouty. "Thank you, sir! I will recall how scared we were to try and slide until we saw you sail down from the top."

"You were not hurt, so we slid, too. And then, the next thing that we knew we all were having heaps of fun and now we have to stop."

"Look out!" cried Duncy. "Here I come! I'll show you that I'm not so dumb at turning flip-flops on this slide. It's easy as can be."

And then amidst some merry squeals he promptly turned head-over-heels. "I'm going to try it, too," said Windy. "It appeals to me."

It wasn't very long until the farmer said, "You've had your thrill upon that great big stack of hay. Now I have a surprise."

"Out in the field we all will go and there, my lads, I'm going to show you something that you all will like. 'Twill open up your eyes."

"Hurrah! We'll have another treat. I hope it's something we can eat," cried Duncy. "I am hungry. Come, let's hurry right along."

Soon way out in the field they found a monstrous melon on the ground. The farmer said, "We'll cut it. I just hope you lads are strong."

He brought a big saw forth and then cried out, "Now get to work again. Please saw that melon through the middle. Then we'll have some lunch."

They sawed away and juice spilled out. And then the bunch heard Copy shout, "Just think how good that's going to taste. This was a happy bunch!"

Fullerton Adopts Ordinance Prohibiting Fake Sales

WATER USERS, COUNCILMEN TO CONFER NOV. 23

FULLERTON, Nov. 16.—Fullerton city councilmen passed city ordinance No. 419 last night, prohibiting all manner of fake sales, in an effort to put a stop to so-called bankrupt sales where goods are continually brought in to supplement supplies, and to stop other sales of inferior materials under false pretense.

All councilmen were present last night. They agreed that a hearing on domestic water payments will be held at 10 a. m. next Wednesday at the city hall for those who have not paid their bills, and that where need is shown, water service will be reconnected where it has been disconnected. The water committee, Councilmen Potter and Gowan, and Mayor William Hale, will attend the hearing.

A new ruling on water was passed in a resolution providing that all who are not property owners, will have to pay $2.50 deposit as well as the advance $1.25 month's charge before connection will be made hereafter. Work of the councilmen to protect collection is to eliminate the people who are using the depression as a means for dodging bills, payments, and not to work a hardship on those who cannot pay.

Albert Launer, city attorney, said that assistance in paying bonded indebtedness in certain district in Fullerton where the load is extra heavy, cannot be adjusted through the Federal Reconstruction Finance Corporation, but that he will assist the property owners in getting relief through the bond holder for this year.

Special note of thanks and of commendation were ordered sent to Verne Baker and the American Legion post on the Armistice day celebration November 11, and to the police of Fullerton and other cities and the county, and to all who assisted in making the day a success.

It was announced the organization meeting of the municipalities of Orange county will be held at Ketter's cafe Thursday at 6:30 p. m. All Fullerton councilmen and Albert Launer plan to attend.

New Real Estate Office Is Opened

MIDWAY CITY, Nov. 16.—A new real estate firm for Midway City is now in business, Charles Monroe, who for some years has been connected with William Rohrbacher, contractor of Santa Ana, and his son-in-law, Gurley A. Leslie, having established offices at their residence, 129 South Jackson street, and also in Santa Ana.

Mr. Gurley formerly lived in Evansville, Ind., he and his wife and young daughter, having but recently arrived in California.

CONSIDERS CASE

LA HABRA, Nov. 16.—The case of the Guy Curtis Collection agency vs. Fisher and J. J. Lilley, of Fullerton, for the collection of a bill for spray material, was heard before Justice of the Peace A. C. Earley Monday afternoon. After hearing the testimony of each side, Judge Earley took the case under advisement for 30 days.

Marryin' Halfback Returns to School

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 16.—(UP)—Ken Meenan, twice married Northwestern football player, will return to school in February to complete his studies and athletic career. Meenan, who was a regular halfback as a sophomore last year, is now raking leaves on the campus to earn part of his tuition. Meenan's first marriage was annulled and his second faces dissolution in the divorce courts.

NEWPORT BOAT OWNER PLANS $16,000 YACHT

NEWPORT BEACH, Nov. 16.—A new boat to have Newport harbor as its home port will be constructed shortly, E. T. Wall, Riverside fruit grower and skipper, having announced plans for a 76-foot Diesel powered yacht.

Wall and the naval architect who designed the craft, D. M. Callis of Wilmington, are now receiving bids from Southern California boat firms. The cost is estimated at $16,000. Wall is the owner of the Blue Goose, a 50-foot boat of the Newport harbor.

Principal dimensions are: Length overall, 76 feet 9 inches; length at waterline, 69 feet 9 inches; beam, 17 feet 9 inches; draft, 6 feet.

Acommodations are provided seven guests in four cabins. The owner's quarters consist of a double stateroom, forward of the engine room, extending the full width of the boat. Appointments include two berths, combination desk and dressing table, locker wardrobe and two alcoves with lockers at ends, and a wall safe. The owner's separate bath, athwartship and forward, entirely separates living quarters from the crew for the forward.

The large saloon is equipped with a fireplace, a seatlocker, a gun locker, table and five chairs and book recesses. The yacht will be powered by two 80-horsepower Diesel engines. Three auxiliary boats will be carried, including a 15-foot power yacht, tender, a 13-foot sailing dinghy, and a dory. The ship will have two masts and a large straight stack.

Parents, Friends Guests at Tustin

TUSTIN, Nov. 16.—Thursday will be observed as visiting day at the high school, Mrs. Frank H. Greenwood, president of the High School P. T. A., announced today. All parents and friends are invited to visit the school and attend the various classes in order to become better acquainted with the students and faculty.

The school work will be conducted as usual, but in recognition of the visitors, a one-act skit, "Copy," will be presented by the school during the noon assembly period. Visitors may obtain their luncheon at the cafeteria.

At 3:30 o'clock, the regular meeting of the P. T. A. will be held in the cafeteria dining room when the theme, "Going to School with Our Adolescents," will be discussed, followed by a social hour, Mrs. Greenwood stated.

MARINE LIFE SLIDES SHOWN HARBOR CLUBS

NEWPORT BEACH, Nov. 16.—If all the codfish eggs laid each year in the Atlantic ocean were hatched and all the fish grew to normal size, that ocean in six years would be composed of solid codfish.

That was one of the startling statements made yesterday at the joint luncheon meeting of the Newport Harbor Service club and the Costa Mesa Lions club at the American Legion clubhouse here by Prof. G. E. McGintie, in charge of the marine laboratory of the California Institute of Technology here.

Professor McGintie said the Newport bay area is very well suited for such an institution as Caltech's marine laboratory, which was established here about two years ago. Recently he said that he and Mrs. McGintie, in a space of a 45-inch circle in this bay, had found no less than 968 animals of 26 different species.

The speaker showed lantern slides of various kinds of marine animal life all over the world, constituting one of the most interesting presentations ever heard by the harbor district service clubs, and he stated that there are more kinds of animal life in the sea than on land, excepting in some of the world's leading marine laboratories and predicted that in time Caltech's institution here would be among the finest.

H. L. Sherman, who recently returned from a six-months stay in Tahiti, presented those present with specimens of "trushroom" coral gathered on the reefs of that island.

P-T. A. SPONSORS BENEFIT AFFAIR

FULLER PARK, Nov. 16.—The Fuller Park Community club will hold its monthly social meeting which will be home talent night, Friday evening at the home of F. Gutheer. Mr. and Mrs. Lundy of Alhambra will be hosts and each woman is requested to bring a pumpkin pie.

PRORATE ADVANTAGES CITED BY CITRUS EXCHANGE HEAD IN PLACENTIA C. OF C. TALK

PLACENTIA, Nov. 16.—George Crawford, manager of the Northern Orange County Citrus exchange, said that 1932 will always be known to citrus growers as the time when the prorated was tried, and that the success measured by the time it was actually in effect was significant of the need of such a plan to operate permanently.

He talked yesterday at the Placentia Chamber of Commerce meeting, and after outlining the methods of handling fruit through the exchange, told of the advantages of the exchange. He declared his personal opinion is that a prorated between competitive shipper cannot be worked and that the only way to make a success is to ship through one great organization, no matter what title is given that organization.

Henry Hale reported that the condition existing that prohibits the Federal Land bank from loaning money in Northern Orange county is being examined by the attorneys of the water companies, and that the only explanation received so far is that the bank does not loan on property where it is necessary to go lower than 50 feet to pump water. Hale declared that the attorney for the Anaheim Union Water company has been instructed to "go as far as he needs to try to change that situation."

The Placentia Community Welfare committee asked, through the president, Mrs. Nellie Cline, that old clothing, shoes and other discarded or out-grown articles be left at the Placentia Chamber of Commerce headquarters for distribution in Placentia, where need for such things is being felt.

The directors unanimously passed a resolution against profit-making stores on a campus of public schools. A letter, sent from the State Chamber of Commerce, requesting the ratification of such a request stated that a bill prohibiting such stores is to be presented at the next session of state legislature.

LeRoy Lyon, newly elected supervisor of third district, was introduced and talked a few minutes on his desire to represent the whole county and to not serve groups in the new position, and to keep an open mind on all questions of good for the people.

10TH BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED BY SERVICE CLUBS

GARDEN GROVE, Nov. 14.—In celebration of the 10th anniversary of the Garden Grove and Anaheim Lions clubs, a 7 o'clock dinner meeting was held in the Garden Grove Women's Civic clubhouse Monday evening.

The Lions' colors of gold and purple were carried out in the table decorations and the large birthday cake with candles. Ira B. Langdon, of Stockton, governor of district four of Lions International, gave the address of the evening on the subject, "Friendship." Friendship and service is the keynote of Lionism and Lionism is growing every day, therefore must first be a need, said.

The meeting was opened by the president, Ray Johnson, who turned the gravel over to the first president of the local den, Fred Felsberg, of Monrovia. Mr. Felsberg laid fines upon the group while Charles Henry, the club's first tail twister, collected the fines.

The Rev. Grover Ralston, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, gave a short talk honoring the memories of members who had passed away within the last 10 years. They were Roy Goren, Jerome Woodworth and Frank Mills. James McGarrigle, popular entertainer from Long Beach, sang several selections. Twenty-four members of the clubs in the county were present with the following honored guests: Bill Mehl, of Pasadena, deputy district governor of the Citrus Belt council; Chalmers Newsum, of Whittier, deputy district governor of the Foothill council; Stanley Brown, president of the officers' association; Dr. Elliott Rowland, of Santa Ana, International director.

A Clear Complexion

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. P. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

The tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, hollow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 50c and 60c.—Adv.

GIRL SCOUTS OF LA HABRA FORM GIVE PATROLS

LA HABRA, Nov. 16.—Five patrols have been formed among members of the Girl Scouts of La Habra for this year's work under the direction of Mrs. N. M. Launer. At a meeting held Tuesday afternoon a pot luck supper was planned for the next meeting, November 22, to be held at the Scout hall beginning at 3:30 p. m. and closing at 7 p. m. The various patrols will have charge of different phases of the work of putting on the dinner.

The Dove patrol was formed, with Lilly Anderson as patrol leader and Freda Baker as scribe. Other members of this patrol are Betty Harper, Ruth Ann McBride, Lena Huffman, April Stempel and Elsie Baker.

Nellie Mae Johnson is leader of the Cardinal patrol with Gertrude Barber as scribe, and Florine Hamilton, Lois Journean, Leah Adele Kniesly, Eileen Livingston and Irene Russell complete this patrol.

The Eagle patrol will be led by Mary Margaret Carey, with Verle Jackson as scribe and other members in this patrol are Jean and Joan Cody, Marjorie Jane Vandenberg, Helen Burrip, Miss Snavely and Marie Pearcy.

The Pine patrol chose Elva Welch as leader and Betty Berry as scribe. Others in this patrol are Jean Little, Bernice McDonald, Kathryn Luehm and Gaynell McClain.

Miss Edith McClure has charge of the Tenderfoot scouts who are not as yet organized into a patrol and these girls are Claudia Jones,

PROGRAM HELD BY COSTA MESA CHURCH GROUP

COSTA MESA, Nov. 16.—The regular November meeting of the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary society of the Community church was held at the parsonage with Mrs. Lowe Tuesday afternoon. The business session, in charge of Mrs. E. L. Bennett, president, included reports of the Junior society, "Little Indians" given by Mrs. Bennett, and the Standard Bearers, Mrs. W. L. Lowe; also a report of the deaconess work at the Church of All Nations of Los Angeles by Mrs. W. B. Snow, conference secretary of Deaconess work, was read by Mrs. J. M. Gallagher, local association secretary.

DATE IS SET FOR BAY LIGHTS EVENT

NEWPORT BEACH, Nov. 16.—The fifteenth annual Newport-Balboa Tournament of Lights will be staged Saturday, July 22, 1933. It was decided at a meeting of directors of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce Tuesday at the American Legion clubhouse.

There was some discussion of staking a larger number of other aquatic events in the bay next summer, and it is possible that this action will be decided on at a meeting in the near future.

A referendum being taken by the chamber of commerce of the United States in regard to railway finances and proposed legislation was referred to the legislative committee, headed by Lew H. Wallace, for a report at the next meeting.

That the Coast (Roosevelt) highway should be numbered in the same way as the inland route, (also known as the coast highway) was the contention of several of the directors of the local chamber and Secretary G. C. Macleod was asked to bring up this matter at a meeting of the Orange County Coast Association at Sunset Beach.

Officers Named By Needle Club

GARDEN GROVE, Nov. 14.—The Thread and Needle club has named its officers, as follows: Dorothy Silvers, president; Lillian Musser, vice president; Anita Force, secretary. The election meeting was held in the home of the leader, Miss Catherine Miller.

Flawless emeralds are very rare and are about twice as costly as diamonds of the same size.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING INSTALLMENTS.

Alacia Sayers' little, fat, ugly, middle-aged, mid-western mother continued to manufacture the new Europa in France when her husband died ten years previously, and now she was worth $600,000, and the Europa was known as the finest motor car in the world. Just when Alacia began to worry because Alfredo Santini, a gigolo who sometimes drove a racing car, was in constant attendance on her mother, Alacia fell in love with a handsome young Frenchman in whose arms she found herself after being hurled into a field from her racing motor car in 1920. Armand de Pas, Prince of Orsant, poverty-stricken pretender to the French throne, Alacia's peer, had been a millionaires and she went to Piron's to buy an imitation. Ramon Cabero and Etienne Lajarra, Alacia's two brothers, had found her ramshackle car. She was amazed to see Armand, who completed the auction by her winning and Armand told her an American aunt had left him more than a million dollars. He found her a success in business or a professional when he was 30. He was asked if he might keep them. She took them to her home to meet her mother.

INSTALLMENT NO. 12
The great staircase of the house was covered in a deep pile velvet carpet which gave no sound, and at the foot of it Mrs. Sayers paused, for the door to the salon was open and inside, standing before the fire, she could see a young man. His back was toward the door, but his profile was caught by a double reflection from a mirror in the salon to one in the hall and his curious actions were plainly visible to the unseen observer on the lowest step of the staircase. Mrs. Sayers was held spellbound by what she saw, for the young man was holding a string of pearls to his lips!

For a moment the elderly woman felt unable to move. What was he doing with those jewels? Whose were they? Could they be a gift for Alacia, or... Where did he get them? She could not help the suspicion which the knowledge of his poverty fastened upon him, and which was seconded by his knowledge of where he was employed. Then she remembered his heritage of a great name and reconsidered. Probably the necklace was an heirloom. Of course! These aristocrats were often amazingly stubborn about parting with their family treasures! Partially satisfied with this explanation but with the shadow of a lingering doubt in her mind none the less, Mrs. Sayers finally entered the little salon. The man turned at the sound of her entrance, but the pearls had disappeared. There was on trace of any confusion in his manner, and indeed if anything he was the more at ease of the two.

"Good evening!" Mrs. Sayers began rather breathlessly. "I'm Alacia's mother and she has been telling me all about it! What are you? I supposed to do?"

"Make friends, I hope!" he replied pleasantly. "Are you going to give me the chance to do that?"

"Oh, of course!" said Mrs. Sayers. "Thank goodness you speak English. I should hate to be mother-in-law in a household where I only knew half of what was going on!"

"Yes, a half-knowledge is too dangerous a thing!" Armand agreed gravely.

"Well, I'm hampered by that right now," Mrs. Sayers declared. "Alacia says I'm not to call you Prince, and I don't know your name!" He smiled engagingly as he enlightened her. After all, he must make this rather terrifying woman like him, he thought, since undoubtedly she would be a formidable enemy. For all her frivolous clothes and the strained artificiality of her face there was a driving force in her which would be difficult to combat.

"And now, my dear Mrs. Sayers," he went on, "I really think you are entitled to some credentials about me aside from the French history books. Do you know a Colonel Hastings Bradley?"

"Of New York? Certainly. I know his business reputation."

"Well, he will tell you I am all right," said he. "At least, I hope he will. He's by way of being a sort of guardian of mine."

"He's a very important man," replied his hostess. "I guess if he's your guardian you'd better bring him to lunch sometime."

"I'll be delighted to," said Armand. "He's due here very shortly. And meanwhile you can talk to Monsieur Piron."

"And I will," she assured him. "Alacia is terribly inexperienced where men are concerned." She was gracious enough to add, "and of course I have to look out for her. You understand, I'm sure!"

"Perfectly."

"I can even go so far as to say I don't think she's ever been in love before," her mother went on, "although she's met a lot of men, and plenty of them have asked her, I assure you!"

"I haven't a doubt of it," he replied. "But they won't worry her from now on, not if I know it!"

"You talk like a boy from home!" Mrs. Sayers bestowed the highest compliment in her power in saying this. "And I'm going to treat you like one. You can stay and have dinner with her, which is more than I'd encourage a lot of foreigners to do, engaged or not. You and I will have a good talk, later. But tonight you'll have to excuse me. I'm going out, and I don't want to be late!"

"Then run along!" said Alacia, suddenly appearing in the doorway. "We'll forgive you. The car's at the door, mother. You two haven't fought yet, have you?"

"Not yet!" said Mrs. Sayers, throwing on her evening coat in a sudden panic of haste. "Alacia I do so to heavens you'd spring your excitement at more convenient was nothing short of dynamic. With incredulous surprise he watched the entrance and introduction of the clerk whom he had so glibly cast as stool pigeon in his latest enterprise, and for a moment his ordinary poise completely deserted him.

Sayers, its effect on Santini

Santini was perfectly familiar with the appearance of the Prince d'Orsant. There had been rare photographs of him in the Royalist papers, and the foreign press had occasionally printed one in some special article dealing with the romantic heroes of lost causes in Europe. Santini had made a special study of such pictures and of any text he could find dealing with their original. He had a particular reason for this, to wit, that he might the more forcefully denounce the Pretender in certain circles which he frequented. Almost invariably the roughest element of his gang were violent radicals, declared or potential and it was the better part of diplomacy to share their views. In fact, of the strongest henchmen Santini had upon boys like Victorine's brother Jacques, was his supposed devotion to the principles of the International. His avowed anti-capitalism was an excellent justification for law-breaking and as the rich were invariably his victims, his crimes thus earned him applause as well as profit. Purely by chance he had picked upon Armand de Pas as his example incarnate of all that was hateful to the proletariat. Perhaps he had chosen Armand merely because of the young prince's finely aristocratic appearance and habit of immaculate dress; perhaps because, in spite of de Pas' known aversion to activity in the Royalist party, he was an actual political actor at all times.

And now as Santini murmured suggestions about the re-arrangement of the rubies, which twinkled and flashed beneath his sweating fingers like coals of living fire, he was rapidly considering the unforeseen situation. It was one thing to frame an unknown boy, another to attempt the same thing in Europe! On the other hand, the coup was too simple to relinquish easily, and the slight of the actual stones themselves aroused his avarice to an intolerable pitch. Then suddenly Santini thought of Armand's poverty, which was well known.

That favored the scheme. Better still, there was the Royalist party's eternal need of funds to carry on its work. When Armand was accused, would it not appear that the robbery had been accomplished for the benefit of the Royalists? Santini chuckled to himself at the thought. In that event his own position among his adherents would be stronger than ever! With a secret breath of relief he decided to let the thing go through, and once the decision was made he dismissed it from his mind, becoming devotedly attentive to his elderly companion.

WHERE THE DEPRESSION BEGAN

Now that the election is over, and our people are able to face facts more dispassionately, it may be interesting to call attention to some overlooked facts. Before the election we heard a great many conflicting statements as to whether the depression began here or abroad. An article in the "Annalist" of October 28 sheds light on the question.

The writer of the article sets down the fact that pig iron turned down in the United States in August, 1929, and turned down very sharply in September of that year. The drop in England and Germany did not come till November, while in France it did not come till August, 1930. Further, the severity of the depression, according to this statistician, has been felt greatest in this country, notwithstanding the claims so often made that Europe has suffered more than the United States. France, it is shown by the figures, has experienced a decline in business of 50 per cent since 1929, England, of 63 per cent, Germany of 77 per cent, while the United States has experienced a decline of 87 per cent from the extreme peak of business to its lowest point. It is interesting to note that A. D. Noyes, the financial editor of the New York Times, made the same statement at an economic conference in Ottawa, Canada, on October 26.

This seems to indicate that the over-inflation in the United States precipitated the crash, and that we have suffered in this country most as a result of it. Long before the credit break in Europe in August, 1930, our own banks all over the country were falling like the fabled leaves in the vale of Vallambrosa. These are facts which a new administration will have to face; and in facing them it should have the reasoned support of all the people of the country. We believe that with politics adjourned for four years, much can be done to bring this country to a new prosperity. It may not go back to the inflated prosperity of '28 and '29, but let us hope to a more stable and lasting prosperity.

SCORE ONE FOR THE STRAW VOTES

As a revelation of trends, the straw votes are increasingly significant. Some would say, "What is the use of having an election when a straw vote accurately registers the coming results?" That question would be more to the point if straw votes could predict results in a contest which was fairly close. In the case of the 1928 election, in the prohibition poll, and in the campaign just ended, there was manifest a great mass movement. Every observing person knew that there were great changes going on in the minds of the masses of the people. It hardly requires a straw vote to register that. It was distinctly evident the last few months.

From now on political observers will give serious attention to these straw polls. If they show a marked trend in any given direction, it will be the part of wisdom to study the causes of the trend. This was not done by the losers in the campaign just over. The campaign of fear and threats simply steered the discontented masses in their determination to make a change. Had the election been a close one, the straw polls would have settled nothing. But a tidal wave roars and swishes long before it breaks. These straw polls have proven that it is possible to get a cross-section opinion which fairly reflects the opinion of the total mass. For that reason we shall scan straw votes in the future with considerable interest, and, so far as they are against us, with some anxiety.

MR. DAWES ESCHEWS POLITICS

Former Vice-President Charles Dawes announces that he is through with politics, and he is going to devote himself to his banking interests. Mr. Dawes has been a picturesque and virile character in our political life, but with the hope of the chief office in the nation certainly forever removed, political activities have pretty much lost their charm. And again, the needs in his own business affairs require undoubtedly his undivided attention.

Mr. Dawes, after all, has made no great contribution to the political needs of this country. While he was a member of the committee that formulated the plan of national payments, which bears his name, that plan failed to work out, and it was simply a scaling down in any case. The Young plan is more so, and finally what will be adopted will be much more in the same direction.

Dawes has always been a loyal friend to those to whom he was attached. He has done things at times, as evidence of that, which have not added to his good reputation. But he has appealed to the people because of his picturesqueness and explosiveness. It does seem sometimes that the people are led to the impulsive man, whatever he may say or do. They liked T. R. in spite of the mistakes he made, because he was so much like themselves.

WILL IT COME TO THIS?

The Rhode Island Commission on Foreign and Domestic Commerce has proposed to the National Transportation Committee that two thousand miles of railroad tracks in New England be torn up and the roadbeds converted into hard-surfaced roads. Is it a portent of the future? If so it is an interesting suggestion, too. Highway congestion in many districts has become a problem. Nowhere has it become more of a problem than in New England where the density of population has resulted in a crowded condition of the roads which has almost reached the point of making motoring impractical. Roads have been widened and augmented until there seems little room for more roads. The conversion of the railroad beds offers convenient space for additional highways.

Will the solution of the problem come about through people traveling by train, or by the railroad beds being converted to additional motor highways? Americans like to come and go when they please and the chances are that there will be additional highways.

BANK REFORMS

In view of the bank fatalities of the past three years which, judging from the Nevada moratorium, have not yet reached the end, the suggestion made by Prof. Theodore E. Gregory of the University of London at the Institute of Politics in Williamstown might well be adopted as a platform of reform.

Dr. Gregory suggested five necessary reforms in the banking business: 1. Guaranteed bank deposits. 2. Uniform banking code. 3. Extension of branch banking. 4. Federal inspection of all banks. 5. Removal of bank shares from the realm of speculation.

Nothing is more urgent in this country than that the people who put their savings in banks should be protected against dishonesty, wild speculation, and incompetence on the part of those who conduct the affairs of banks. Some reform is needed. These suggestions of Prof. Gregory might well serve as a basis for such reform.

True Government

Christian Science Monitor

There are forces making for right government which are greater than individuals or political parties. All mankind is struggling toward the same fundamental objects: happiness, freedom to maintain and express individual integrity, opportunity for constructive work and the rewards which come from it. The function of right government is to create the conditions within which these blessings may flourish.

Thinkers may dispute as to the best type of governmental structure, and as to the policies which congresses should adopt in face of the problems of a developing civilization, but fundamentally they agree upon the ideals of government.

The political party which is to come into power in the United States on the fourth of March next will find itself operating not under the compulsion of opposition which it has felt for many years, but under the necessity of constructive action. The party system as employed in America calls for a party in power to carry on the work of governing, and for at least one additional party representing other points of view, to act as a constant restraint upon the abuse of power. Ever since the end of the Wilson regime it has been the Democratic party that has been the party of opposition, using the tools of opposition vigorously. Often these have been the tools of irresponsible criticism, of obstruction, of sarcasm.

But beginning with next March, the Democratic party will find itself in a radically different position. It will have the clear mandate of the people to govern, and it will have the executive and congressional power to do so—through such indubitable control of the government that there can be no question of the responsibility for the measures it takes.

Therefore, those who are newly come into power will find that the tools of opposition are no longer useful. They will find themselves under the imperative necessity of picking up the tools of construction. They will find themselves to have become men under authority, responsible servants of those forces of right government which are greater than any man or party.

Henry Van Dyke at 80

New York Times

A man of "many tasks of different kinds," done all with high distinction and supreme grace, a preacher turned teacher, poet, diplomat, fisherman—yet preacher always—to whose sermons, like those of good St. Brandon and St. Anthony of Padua even the fishes were attracted, Dr. Van Dyke dwells at fourscore in his island valley, "Avalon." The best of islanders, however, is he, "keeping up communication with the rest of the archipelago," and the earth-archipelago acclaiming him as one of its best-loved neighbors.

He has been a doughty fighter in every field—in the pulpit, in the press, in public affairs, from those of his little academic community to those of the nation and of the world at large. An outspoken "liberalist" in theology and in politics, he served his church in its highest office and his country as envoy to the land of his ancestors, where during the war he was a "minister" in the most exalted meaning of that word. He was all that his name suggests—a man of the dikes in his diplomatic service.

It is as a man of letters that he has given his best to his day and generation—in his avocation. As he said in receiving the felicitation of his fellow-Academicians yesterday, he "never wrote for the market," but only because "certain things seemed worth writing about"—in verse if it were demanded of him, in prose if that were the fittest medium. One volume not included in the shelf of his "works" should have mention apart: "The Book of Common Worship," prepared at the direction of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in 1903 by a committee of which he was chairman, and recently revised by a committee of which he was also chairman. Here, like the voice of Sir Bedivere which King Arthur would have risen in prayer, the petitions which he has written will be said by a multitude of voices night and day.

Chapel's Reconstruction

Christian Science Monitor

It is in the history of great cities that a major catastrophe, such as earthquake or fire, is making desolating and laying waste the old, is making way for a new and more modern metropolis, laid out on a superior plan to achieve a greater purpose. San Francisco partially grasped such an opportunity and Yokohama has taken advantage of the un-wished-for chance to rise phoenix-like. And so it is now with Chapel, that portion of Shanghai laid waste by Japanese guns.

Mayor Wu Teh-chen has announced a "three-year plan" to rebuild Chapel as a great industrial center comparable to the International Settlement of Shanghai. Property owners are informed that no permanent structures may be built until the new city plan has been completed. Naturally situated to be a great manufacturing and trading area, Chapel is to undergo a heroic construction campaign which is to displace outmoded structures and street systems that long impeded economic process.

It is to be wondered if the Japanese marksmen who bowled over the dilapidated structures of old Chapel were aware that the havoc they were making might yet be translated in the course of years, into a distinct advantage for the district, and for China. When the new Chapel grows to full stature, perhaps some of the suffering and loss experienced by its inhabitants will thus, in a measure, be assuaged.

More Truth Than Poetry

TO A ROBIN

When your old coat is worn and frayed
No worry frets your little noodle;
You just sit calmly in the shade
And grow a new and modish model.
You tilt the field and woodland through Arrayed in your gay, swanky raiment,
For which you spend no single sou
In payment.

No grocery bills come in each week
To fill your breast with rude disquiet,
For you have never far to seek
For nourishing and healthful diet.
You dwell among vast swarms of fat
And appetizing moths and millers,
And endless quantities of catterpillars.

When frost is in the autumn air
And cold rains chill your little gizzard,
You need not think, in dumb despair,
About the coming of the blizzard.
You merely join the feathered swarm
Which annually moves in legions
Across the peak and plain to warmer regions.

You have few cares your soul to fret;
You know no need to rush or hurry;
You are not troubled or upset
Or worn with soul-destroying worry.
From tree to tree, and clime to clime,
Your way you are forever winging;
No wonder you devote your time
To singing.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

PAGING THE SOCIAL INVENTOR

If we dip far enough back in human history, man had not mustered the genius to invent either a cartwheel or a constitution.

Mechanical invention was unknown.

Social invention was unheard of.
In time man set out the twin ventures of mechanical invention and social invention.

By mechanical invention he has created all the machines, instruments, and appliances that lend comfort and convenience to modern life.

By social invention he has created all the methods and means of living together that set modern men off from their intensely individualistic forebears in jungle and cave.

And by social invention man has evolved the policies, procedures, and organizations by which he has undertaken to manage the tools and tendencies that mechanical invention has thrust into modern life.

Man has proved more adept at mechanical invention than at social invention.

Man can make things and tendencies faster than he can learn to manage them.

In the mechanical field man displays a spirit of conquest.

In the social field man displays a spirit of compromise and caution.

We applaud the man interested in mechanical invention as a benefactor.

We arraign the man interested in social invention as a bohemian.

In the dim past, when man found himself in a state of fear and helplessness before forces of the physical world had not yet conquered and learned to manage, he was spurred to research in a spirit of confidence and conquest which flowered in productive mechanical inventions.

In the disturbing present, when man finds himself in a state of fear and helplessness before forces of the social and economic world he has not yet conquered or learned to manage, may he not be spurred to research that will flower in productive social and economic inventions?

Here is our next frontier—the frontier of social invention, the devising of better ways and means of managing the modern world.

PROJECTED EMOTIONS

Grownup people are too much given to crediting children with emotions they do not have. This wears them out and does the children no good. A mother met me with tears streaming down her cheeks.

"I cannot tell my son this. You must change his marks. It will break his heart to find that he only got an eighty when he expected to get over ninety."

"Doesn't he know his marks?
How did you get them before he did?"

"I know how sensitive he is so I went to the teacher and asked for his mark and she gave it to me. I am so disappointed. I know he will be heartbroken. You can not let him suffer like this. You must change this mark."

Marks cannot be changed. If they can they are useless. I explained this to the weeping mother. "Your boy doesn't seem to me to be the sort that would suffer because he got an eighty-seven instead of a ninety-seven. I'll call him in and tell him about this.
If you don't mind."

"O no, no, don't do that. I couldn't bear to see him suffer as I know he is going to. Please change his mark."

When I saw the lad I asked him what he got in biology. "Not so bad. I got eighty-seven. I wanted a better mark but I left out half of the seventh. I didn't see it.
And I guess I was too excited. And I didn't reduce the equation in the last one. I'll do better next time.
I won't be so scared about it."

He went off smiling. He had none of the emotion his mother had saddled upon him. It was her own that she was projecting toward her boy, suffering when no suffering was necessary.

People do that often. "I hate to send him to bed, he is having such a good time." "I feel so sorry for him leaving his grandfather. He won't get over it in a hurry." "Poor child. He wanted a set of chessmen so bad and he didn't get them. His whole day is going to be spoiled." "What will we ever do? All her friends live here and she is so wrapped up in them and in her school and we have to move. It will be a shock to her. I am afraid she will not get along. It's too bad, too bad."

Don't do that. Youth and childhood, as well, are not so stiff in their emotional joints as you are.
They can adapt and adjust and begin anew when you couldn't. Their emotions have not the roots yours have as a general thing. Such wounds as they receive are easier healed than your own. Don't accent the emotions you feel. Put a cheerful face on whatever comes and help the children to take it lightly.

Haven't you seen a happy child begin to cry after one look at its mother's face? Haven't you seen a cheerful child become suddenly downcast and even sullen after a glance at his mother's countenance?

I have. Emotions are easily transferred to children. They have enough of their own without any of yours added. And they must be protected from your own over-stimulated moods. It is not fair to enjoy your distress at the expense of the children and that is really what you are doing at times when you dwell on the distress they are going to feel. They usually feel nothing of the sort.

Anyway, why not let the children have their emotions first hand?
They get along better with them
if you do.
